Yitzhak Rabin takes Golda Meir's place

By The Associated Press

Yitzhak Rabin replaced Golda Meir as premier of Israel today as the Jerusalem parliament approved his new peace-oriented cabinet by a 61-51 vote.

Only hours before, Syrian and Israeli generals announced in Geneva they had reached agreement on all essential points of a plan for disengagement on the Golan Heights and will sign it Wednesday. They said agreement also was reached on details for exchanging all remaining prisoners of war and the return of bodies.

In presenting his government to parliament Rabin pledged that Israel will work for peace in the Middle East "but not peace at any price."

He said the truce pacts worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger opened the road to fuller peace talks with the Arabs, but that Israel will keep strengthening its army and not withdraw to the prewar borders of 1967 as the Arabs demand.

"Our policy is clear. We prefer peace to new military victories, stable peace, a just peace, an honorable peace, but not peace at any price," he said.

Rabin said the disengagement pacts worked out by Kissinger between Israel, Egypt and Syria are "not peace agreements," adding "where do we go from here?"

"The next stage on the road to peace must be between Egypt and Israel" with negotiations by steps toward a full settlement, he said. "As for Syria, there is no place for an interim stage."

This was a clear declaration that Israel intended no more withdrawals on the Syrian front and that only a full peace treaty would be considered. But he questioned "whether Syria is ready to sign a peace treaty with Israel."

Turning to Lebanon, Rabin said peace would be "easy to reach" if Beirut agreed, but he warned that if Arab terrorists continued to infiltrate from Lebanese soil "the Lebanon government will bear all the responsibility."

Rabin was expected to win confirmation of his government from the Knesset, Israel's parliament, even though his coalition has a majority of only two. His coalition is made up of the Labor party which has ruled Israel ever since it came a nation, the Independent Liberal party and a citizens rights group.

The 52-year-old former chief of staff and ambassador to Washington said he would continue Premier Golda Meir's policy toward the Middle East peace negotiations in Geneva, including her refusal to bargain there with the Palestine guerrilla organizations.

The final meeting of Premier Golda Meir's cabinet Sunday marked the departure from the government of four long-dominant members of the Israeli Establishment: Mrs. Meir, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir.

Many Israelis heralded their exit as the end of an era and the coming to power of a new, native-born generation. But some maintain that their experience will be badly missed.

Although they have left the government, Eban, Dayan and Sapir retain their seats in the Knesset and will continue to be major figures in the Labor party. And Mrs. Meir has said that although she is retiring from politics, "I am not fleeing the country."

Meanwhile, Gen. Herzl Shafir of Israel and Gen. Adnan Tayara of Syria continued their negotiations in Geneva and issued a communique saying they had "made considerable progress in demarcating the different phases of disengagement" and in discussing other collateral matters.

The generals scheduled another meeting today.

Shafir and Tayara are working out a timetable for the various troop movements on the Golan Heights called for in the disengagement agreement and other matters necessary to put the agreement into effect.

Colson enters plea of guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential aide Charles W. Colson pleaded guilty today to leading an attempt in 1971 to influence the outcome of the Daniel Ellsberg trial.

His bargained plea to the new, single-count criminal information brought by the special prosecutor's office was met with assurances that the grand jury indictments against him, in the two separate cases, would be dropped.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell set sentencing for June 21, four days after Colson and four other defendants were tentatively scheduled to go on trial in Gesell's court for the break-in at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Colson also faced charges, along with other Nixon aides, in the Watergate cover-up trial, set to begin Sept. 9. Those charges were obstruction of justice and conspiracy to obstruct.

Deputy special prosecutor William S. Merrill said he would ask both Gesell and Judge John J. Sirica, who is to preside over the cover-up trial, to dismiss all previously-leveled counts against Colson once he is sentenced. Gesell approved the plan.

The indictment said that Colson attempted to have Ellsberg "tried in the newspapers."

Colson pleaded guilty to a one-count grand jury indictment accusing him of obstruction of justice.

Other charges against Colson related to the break-in at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist were dropped in the surprise court development.

Indications were that charges against Colson in the Watergate cover-up also would be dropped.

The new indictment said Colson attempted to get the original Ellsberg case "tried in the newspapers."

Ellsberg, a former Pentagon analyst, had been accused of leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

But Ellsberg was freed in early 1973 when Judge Matthew Byrne found misconduct by the government in the case, citing wiretapping and the break-in at the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding.

The indictment to which Colson pleaded guilty said he devised and implemented "a scheme to defame and destroy the public image and credibility of Daniel Ellsberg and those engaged in the legal defense of Daniel Ellsberg."

Appearing before U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell, Colson said "my motives and purpose were to neutralize Dr. Ellsberg as an antiwar speaker... It didn't matter to me that he was facing serious criminal charges."

Gesell set Colson's sentencing for June 21. The maximum penalty for the one-count indictment is five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Focus on ITT antitrust case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee turns its attention this week to the ITT antitrust settlement, confident there's plenty to look at despite the special prosecutor's announcement absolving corporate officials of wrongdoing in the case.

"Our inquiry is completely independent of that," said Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., when asked about the effect of the prosecutor's finding.

John Doar, chief counsel for the impeachment inquiry, said that, "unless you start with the premise that every allegation is true, I don't think it yanks the rug out from under us."

Meanwhile, a committee member, Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., predicted

Nixon would be impeached and tried in the Senate. Waldie appeared Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation," with fellow committee member Lawrence Hogan, R-Md.

Hogan did not agree with Waldie that Nixon would be impeached for obstruction of justice in the Watergate cover-up, but said that if impeachment does come "it will come in the areas related to Watergate."

On the West coast, six governors interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" said evidence sought by the committee should be released by Nixon. The six, attending the National Governor's Conference in Seattle, were Democrats Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Daniel Walker of Illinois, Wendell Anderson of Minnesota and Wendell Ford of Kentucky, and Republicans Tom McCall of Oregon and Daniel J. Evans of Washington.

Carter and McCall also said failure of Nixon to give up the evidence should be ground for removing him from office.

In the ITT phase of the impeachment inquiry, the committee is investigating the allegation that an antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation was settled in return for a pledge of financial help toward the cost of conducting the 1972 Republican National Convention in San Diego. In addition, it is alleged that perjury may have been committed by several administration officials during the Education and Welfare Caspar Weinberger.

All but four of the nation's governors are expected to attend the formal opening of the conference today. Govs. John Burns of Hawaii, Bob Ray of Iowa, Francis Sargent of Massachusetts and George Wallace of Alabama have said they would not attend.

On Sunday, the conference's executive committee approved a broad resolution, sponsored by Govs. William G. Milliken, R-Mich., and Patrick J. Lucey, D-Wis., calling for reforms "at all levels of government."

The resolution, due for consideration by the full conference Wednesday, urges "loophole-free" campaign finance reforms in public campaign financing, strict ethics codes, wider disclosure of lobbying activities and greater openness in government.

States' accomplishments praised

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The chairman of the National Governors Conference said today that states have compiled a record "of decisive action in contrast to that of the national government" in key areas ranging from political reform to consumer protection.

In the first of what is expected to become an annual "State of the States" speech to the conference's first business session, Gov. Daniel J. Evans, R-Wash., said that in the past few years "it has been the states who have responded most fully to the problems of the day."

Evans spoke to a conference of governors who are saying they hope to avoid getting entangled in the Watergate scandal while claiming they are doing a better job than the federal government of meeting the nation's problems.

It repeated his contention, given at a press conference Sunday, that "states have clearly taken national leadership" in the areas of campaign reform and governmental ethics.

"In state after state significant sunshine laws, and other similar laws on ethics, on campaign limitations, on lobbyist reporting, open government have taken place while there has not been similar action as dramatic at the national level."

The opening day's business sessions included Evans' "State of the States" speech, a roundtable discussion with key congressional leaders of both parties and a panel on health care.

The health care seminar featured Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; American Medical Association President Dr. Russell B. Roth; and Secretary of Health,

Scene of fatal fire

The remains of the front porch of the Leslie L. Reed residence, 412 West Pettis, are shown following a fatal fire there early Monday morning. Reed, the only occupant of the home, died from suffocation due to the smoke from the fire, officials said.

Sedalia man perishes in fire in home

A Sedalia man died as a result of a fire which gutted the front porch of his home early Monday morning.

Leslie L. Reed, 49, was found dead on the floor in the bedroom of his house at 412 West Pettis. The Sedalia Fire Department reported the cause of death as suffocation.

Firemen were called to the scene at 6:04 a.m. by a neighbor. The cause of the fire was reported by fire officials as a short in the electrical wiring of the porch.

The coroner could not be reached for comment early Monday afternoon.

Reed's step-father, Delbert Holmes, 605 West Pettis, said that he believed the fire began on the front porch because of the extent of damage to the porch. He also said that the porch itself had been added to the house only two months before.

Fire officials estimated damage to the house at $2,000.

Reed's body was taken to the Allen and Sons Funeral Home.

British claim army preventing anarchy

LONDON (AP) — The British government today rejected demands to pull its troops out of Northern Ireland and declared that only the army was preventing anarchy in the province.

"The fact is that without the British army, the forces of law and order could not cope with the immediate future," Merlyn Rees, Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, told the House of Commons.

Rees was reporting to lawmakers recalled early from a spring vacation for an emergency debate on Northern Ireland.

More than 1,000 persons have died in the war between Northern Ireland's Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic community, outnumbered two to one. The dead include more than 200 British soldiers who tried to restore peace.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson called Parliament back into session after a coalition of moderate Protestants and Catholics attempting to govern Northern Ireland was forced to resign. The British government resumed direct rule of the province after a 15-day general strike led by militant Protestants opposed to the sharing of power with the Catholics.

Although there was considerable belief in British political circles before the strike that the moderates in Northern Ireland eventually would win out, many of Wilson's Laborites, some Conservatives and a number of Liberals now reportedly favor setting a date for Britain to get out of Northern Ireland.

The tabloid Daily Mirror, which has a national circulation of more than 4 million, devoted its entire front page today to what it called Britain's gravest crisis since the British-French invasion of Suez in 1956 and to a decision the country must face: Pulling out its troops and abandoning sovereignty over the province.

Report on spending by military blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pair of Wisconsin Democrats fired salvoes at military spending over the weekend, taking aim at billions of dollars in weapons cost overruns and military spending in Indochina.

Sen. William Proxmire released General Accounting Office figures Sunday showing cost overruns totaling $26.3 billion for the development of 55 new weapons systems.

And Rep. Les Aspin said estimates prepared by the Defense Intelligence Agency show that the United States has spent nearly 30 times as much in Indochina since 1966 as the Soviet Union and mainland China combined—$107.1 billion to $3.65 billion.

According to the figures released by Proxmire the weapons systems involved are now expected to cost some $134.2 billion. This compares with original estimates of $111.6 billion.

And, a spokesman said the quantity of many of the items has been reduced to save money. The original estimate on the smaller quantity would have been $107.9 billion for an overrun of $26.3 billion.

Proxmire said the costs of building the DD963 destroyer have risen from the original planning estimates of $1.8 billion to a current estimate of $3.1 billion, and per ship cost from $60 million to $102.6 million.

"That is an increase of more than 70 per cent and not a single ship has been completed," he said.

Other major cost overruns noted in the GAO report included $1.43 billion for the F15 fighter; $756 million for the Minuteman III missile; $417.9 million for the SAM-D missile; $394.1 million for the XM-1 tank and $349.9 million for the UTTAS helicopter.

Aspin, meanwhile, charged that the Indochina spending figures compiled by the Defense Intelligence Agency "put the lie" to administration claims that American aid to South Vietnam was meant only to counter Russian and Chinese assistance to the north.

And in a statement released Monday Aspin said that GAO officials have not been able to determine the extent of cost overruns in the Safeguard antiballistic-missile system.

He accused the Army of juggling its books to make it impossible to make such a determination and of violating its own rules on identifying the cause of cost overruns.

Aspin said a May 1969 planning estimate showed a projected cost of $4.185 billion for a two-site system.

Mrs. Jackson interim collector for county

Mrs. Lorraine J. Jackson

Mrs. Lorraine J. Jackson, 47, 502 Sunset Drive, has been appointed interim Pettis County Collector by Gov. Christopher Bond, it was announced Monday, to fill the unexpired term of Raymond "Flackie" Wilder.

Mrs. Jackson, a Republican candidate for the office in the August primary, was earlier recommended for the post by the Pettis County Republican Committee.

Wilder, a Democrat, died May 21 of an apparent heart attack.

Bond's office told The Democrat-Capital Friday that an interim collector would probably not be appointed until the week of June 11. However, Republican county committee chairman Leroy Iuchs said "the governor apparently found he could make the appointment and fit it into his schedule earlier than he thought."

Despite being notified Saturday of her appointment, Mrs. Jackson will not be sworn into office until an audit of Wilder's office, required by state law, has been completed and verified by a three-person committee.

"By the time this is completed," Iuchs said, "the earlier projection of June 11 will be pretty close, when speaking of Mrs. Jackson officially beginning her duties."

Mrs. Jackson, a graduate of Hughesville High School, has had 31 years of bookkeeping experience. She was formerly employed at the Taylor-Wagner accounting firm and is now self-employed as a bookkeeper.

In the August primary, she will be opposed by William Gogerty, 57, 2204 West Second.

Calley testimony request is denied by federal judge

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — A federal judge today denied a request by William L. Calley's lawyers for the production of the Peers Report — the Army's investigation of the My Lai massacre.

The denial was the first round won by government lawyers in appeal arguments before U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott.

The request was one of five separate motions in which Calley's lawyers sought eyewitness accounts obtained by those who investigated the slaying of Vietnamese civilians in March 1968. The defense is attempting to win reversal of Calley's courtmartial conviction for the slaying of 22 Vietnamese civilians.

Elliott, who freed Calley on bail in February, heard motions today which will be considered June 24, the date the appeal will be argued.

Elliott ruled that because the defense had access to the Peers Report during Calley's courtmartial, he saw no benefit for it to be brought before his court.

The judge granted a defense motion for the production of all records having to do with Calley's trial.

Elliott also denied a defense motion for the production of a letter in which Calley's lawyers claim a congressional subcommittee received prior notification that Calley would be charged with My Lai murders before the Army even charged him.

Calley's appeal concerns whether his constitutional rights were violated by military court.

In today's hearing, Elliott will decide on which motions he will allow to be argued later this month.

The briefs request the judge to subpoena the Army to produce a copy of a report on the massacre, claiming the Army's investigation of My Lai is necessary for appeal arguments.

High court declines to rule on abortion question

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today declined to decide whether husbands can veto abortions sought by their wives.

The court also refused to consider whether the consent of parents is needed before a minor daughter may have an abortion.

The issues are presented in two appeals from Florida where a three-judge panel voided the state spouse and parental consent requirements.

Eighteen other states require consent of either the husband or parents, or of one or the other depending on the circumstances, for abortions.

The Supreme Court refused to consider the issues on grounds that a separate appeal is still pending in a lower federal court.

In other action today the court: —Refused to review a lower-court decision ordering a hearing on whether James Earl Ray should be permitted to withdraw his plea of guilty to the murder of Martin Luther King Jr.

—Ruled that Corning Glass Works violated federal law and discriminated against women employees by perpetuating a pay system giving men night differential for work performed by women during the day.

—Upheld the conviction of five former West Virginia officials who were found guilty of vote fraud under an 1870 civil rights law.

The Florida law was challenged by four pregnant women who filed suit under pseudonyms and by Pamela Harris, an abortion counselor in Miami, and Dr. Lynn P. Carmichael, a Miami physician.

Attorneys for the two sides sought a Supreme Court ruling to settle the major issues they said were left unresolved when the Supreme Court ruled last year that state laws prohibiting abortion in the early months of pregnancy are unconstitutional.

Three soldiers are found slain near lake shore in S.C.

MODOC, S.C. (AP) — A sheriff says robbery apparently was the motive for the slayings of three soldiers whose mutilated bodies were found on a lake shore near here.

McCormick County Sheriff J.P. Gable said the victims' pockets had been emptied. He said said the bodies were mutilated by stabblings, cuts, blows by a heavy instrument and gunshot wounds.

The victims' bodies were found early Sunday on the shore of Lake Clark Hill. Authorities said the three Ft. Gordon, Ga., soldiers were slain Saturday. The sheriff said at least two persons were involved in the slayings.

One of the victims was identified as James Donahoe, 18, of El Paso, Tex. The others were not identified immediately pending notification of relatives. They had been at the Army Signal School at Ft. Gordon about five months, Gable said.

The murders occurred in a heavily wooded area about 20 miles from Augusta and Ft. Gordon, accessible only by a dirt road. The lake forms part of the South Carolina-Georgia boundary.

No progress report expected on police department probe

A progress report on the city-ordered investigation into the Sedalia Police Department is not expected to be given at tonight's City Council meeting, Mayor Jerry Jones indicated Monday.

"I don't anticipate any discussion along those lines at all," Jones said.

At its May 20 meeting, the council unanimously voted to authorize an investigation of the force, to be headed by local attorney William Brown.

The investigation stemmed from a recent public hearing of the police personnel board in which allegation of impropriety and misconduct by members of the force were levied.

The council meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Building council chambers.

Weekend traffic accidents claim seven in Missouri

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents in Missouri over the weekend resulted in at least seven deaths.

The latest victim was Jimmy Houk Jr., 13, of Route 7, Joplin. The highway patrol said he was riding a bicycle and attempted to cross Interstate 44 about two miles east of Joplin. He was struck by a car driven by Gregory Koehler, 27, of Kernville, Calif.

Other names added to the list Sunday were Amy Clayton, 16, Springfield, Mo., and David George Pratt, 19, Cade, Mo.

Miss Clayton was tossed from a vehicle that overturned on a county road just north of Springfield.

Pratt died in a St. Louis hospital of injuries suffered early Sunday when he was struck by a car on Missouri 21 near Old Mines, about 50 miles southwest of St. Louis. The highway patrol was looking for the car that struck Pratt.

Victims of earlier accidents in the weekend:

—Floyd Council, 19, Ft. Riley, Kan.
—Ricky Ross, 16, Ava, Mo.
—Allen Ammons, 31, Clifton Hill, Mo.

Union members in U.S. garment industry strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Picket lines went up today at 700 manufacturers of apparel for men and boys across the nation as the first strike against the garment industry in half a century went into full gear.

On the picket list of the 110,000-member Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America were selected manufacturers and factories in more than 100 towns in 30 states.

About 40,000 of the pocketmakers, cutters, button-hole makers and machine operators striking in the wage dispute with the Clothing Manufacturers Association live in the New York City metropolitan area.

Other strikers were concentrated in Massachusetts, Illinois, Mississippi, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio, Missouri, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and California.

The union is seeking a new labor contract containing higher wages, a cost-of-living clause and fringe benefits. Details of the demands were not announced. The employees earn an average of $3.50 an hour.

Despite the aid of federal mediators, talks between the manufacturers and the union collapsed Saturday and the strike was called. No new negotiations were scheduled.

The strike is not expected to cause any immediate clothing shortages. But the workers, most of whom have weekends off, walked out on the first real business day of a week in which the garment industry planned to build up production for the fall fashion season.

Drownings claim three in Missouri

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three children drowned in Missouri Sunday — two of them after they were blown from a boat on the Lake of the Ozarks by a massive explosion.

The bodies of Timothy Steven Rackers, 5, and Brad David Rackers, 6, cousins, both from Jefferson City, Mo., were recovered Sunday night during dragging operations conducted by the Missouri Division of Water Safety.

The third victim, who died at a Springfield hospital about an hour after being found floating face down in the James River near Nixa, was identified as Eric Jacob Landry, son of Mrs. Karen Lynne Landry of rural Springfield. The family was camping out and police quoted the mother as saying she thought the boy was asleep in a camper.

Capt. Dan Needham of the state Division of Water Safety quoted Dennis K. Rackers, 17, Jefferson City, as saying he was turning the boat to pick up some skiers with the party when the explosion occurred. Rackers, Timothy's brother, suffered a broken arm when he was tossed over the windshield of the 17-foot boat. Needham said.

The boat, equipped with a 120-horsepower Buick inboard-outboard motor, was demolished on the inside, he said.

Needham added, "I could only speculate" about the cause. "There was quite an accumulation of gas in the bilge. It looks like it backfired through the carburetor, igniting what fumes were present."

The accident occurred in Bridson Cove, about three miles from Bagnell Dam.

Selective Service registrars to be at county schools

With the closing Tuesday of the Pettis County Selective Service office, county youths reaching age 18 may register at their local high schools, State Fair Community College or by mail, office manager Mrs. Lana Whitworth reported Monday.

Arrangements have been made, Mrs. Whitworth said, with officials of all county high schools and SFCC to provide legal registrars for the Selective Service. The Smith-Cotton high school draft registrar will be assistant principal Elmer Myer, while Jean Mowry will serve in a similar capacity at State Fair Community College, Mrs. Whitworth said.

In addition, she noted, persons desiring to register by mail can pick up proper registration material in the office of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, located on the first floor of the federal building.

The local office is transferring most of its records to the Marshall office.

The consolidation move, which will eliminate nine additional offices throughout the state, is part of a continuing cutback program following the end of the military draft.

Ann Landers

Snoopy mom gains information wrongly

Dear Ann Landers: I hope I'm not too late to get in on the fracas about the mother who read her daughter's diary.

Girls don't need all that privacy and neither do boys. I read anything I find lying around — letters, diaries, notes in my kids' pockets, it makes no difference. I am deeply interested in what my children are doing and the best way to find out is to keep my eyes open for any and all clues.

My own daughter (now grown and the mother of six) told me that a friend of hers would never have known that her son was selling dope if she hadn't read his mail. Luckily she was able to get him to stop before he was arrested.

Five women in this office agree there is NOTHING we wouldn't do to protect our children. — Snoopy Mom

Dear Mom: Sorry, but if snooping is the only way a mother can learn what her children are doing, something is wrong with the relationship.

One of the reasons our government, at the highest level, has lost its credibility is because several young men thought as you do. They broke into an office like a bunch of common thieves in search of information to use against a political candidate, and look at where it has led us.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents were divorced four years ago. I am 18, living at home with my mother and stepfather and a 17-year-old brother who has been in and out of trouble with the law.

The problem is my mother. She and I don't get along very well. The main thing we fight about is that I want to see my real father. She says if I go to see him I can never come home. All this is making a nervous wreck out of me. I want to move out of the house and share an apartment with a friend. I think we can hack it financially. Mom says once I leave she won't let me back in the house.

I need someone to advise me. What is the wise thing to do? — Getting Ulcers at 18

'Gas' problems in older persons

Dear Dr. Lamb — Energy crisis or no, there seems to be no "gas" shortage among us older folks! We go on having "gas" trouble for lack of a reliable way to prevent or get quick relief. Your views on the subject would be welcome.

I, myself, have suffered from what has been diagnosed as spastic colon. A blank, low-roughage diet and anti-spasmodic medications have been the main control with less than satisfactory results. There is a side effect that I have not been able to impress my doctor sufficiently with. The gas attacks occur usually at night, the pressure increases and it has a marked effect on the heart.

The pulse rate, normally around 64, becomes highly erratic and speeds up to 90 to 120 while at the same time a completely debilitating weakness overtakes me. Urination, ordinarily once a night or none, becomes very urgent and a total of two quarts may be voided during the next few hours. The walk to the bathroom becomes a herculean task and leaves me weak and faint.

What can we oldsters do to prevent gas attacks, and what can be done for reasonable prompt relief?

Dear Reader — This is a common complaint and it can cause a severe discomfort, as you know. I suspect your heart irregularities are indeed caused by the gas. You are describing an impending faint. These can be induced by pain from any source. In this instance your pain is caused by distention and spasm in your colon.

Anyone who has excessive gas problems should have a good medical examination. The examination may pinpoint the basic underlying medical problem as it has in your case with your problem of spastic colon.

The anti-spasmodics you are taking are important in severe cases. Not all doctors would agree with your diet, however. In more recent years the tendency has been to give people with spastic colon problems a diet containing lots of roughage. The colon is a muscular tube. It has to have enough bulk to contract against to have normal, rhythmic contractions without cramps or spasms. Specifically, the diet should include cereal fiber. You get this from real whole wheat bread and whole grain cereals. Use plenty of leafy vegetables and salads.

To help control the gas problem one should eliminate coffee in all its forms, including all the decaffeinated products. The flavor oils alone are irritating to the colon. Tea and colas should also be eliminated. Eliminate alcohol, at least until the gas and colon problems are completely under control.

Many people who have gaseous problems and difficulties, often labeled as spastic colon, really cannot tolerate the lactose milk sugar in milk and milk products. The test here would be to eliminate all milk and milk products from your diet for some time. That includes cheese and buttermilk.

Of course, you are probably already eliminating your seasoning, but it's important to eliminate all the spicy seasonings including garlic, from the diet to avoid gas. Most people will learn that there are certain foods that are particularly gas-formers for them. This often includes onions, cabbage and beans.

Such an individual should avoid all sweet, starchy foods that are made with white flour. That includes elimination of pie, cake, sweet rolls, puddings and similar products.

If a spastic colon is the problem, then a good bowel program, which should mean having a fairly substantial breakfast with lots of fluids and a regular bowel habit each morning, should be initiated. Laxatives obviously should be avoided. Often on such a program the spastic colon problem will disappear and this, in turn, will alleviate the gas problem. (NEA)

Film writer specializes in dramatizing actual events

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "In these times fiction can't live up to what's happening in real life," observes film writer Abby Mann, who has specialized in converting actual events into screen entertainment.

"Take the Patty Hearst story," he says. "A screen writer couldn't imagine a script so bizarre. Or Watergate. If it were done as a movie, it would be heavily dramatic."

"But the most interesting thing about Watergate is that it's so mundane — the people, their conversations, everything."

Mann points out that even "The Exorcist" was based on a real-life event. Such hits as "Patton," "The French Connection" and "Papillon" have also proved to producers the value of film subjects based on actual happenings.

The trend is favorable to Abby Mann, a former reporter who knows how to dramatize the news.

His first movie script, "Judgement at Nuremberg," won Mann an Oscar. He did his own legwork on that one, interviewing German judges about their activities during the Nazi regime.

His next assignment is to chronicle the plight of the Indian in today's America. His producer, Marlon Brando, at present Mann is overseeing the filming of Mike Frankovich's production, "Report to the Commissioner," based on the James Mills novel. Offhand you might think that the world doesn't need another movie about corruption in the New York Police Department, but Mann says this one is different.

"This is not a police picture, nor is it a chase picture," he remarked. "It's a reflection of our society, showing how three young people — a young white cop, an white undercover policeman, and a black pusher — are destroyed by the establishment because they try to go against the system."

Mann disclosed some of the details of the next Brando project, which has been subject to secrecy, like most of the reclusive actor's doings.

"Marlon called me one day to ask if I would like to write a script about the Indians," said Mann.

The two men discussed a film to deal with the Indian cause. At first they talked of a story set in the frontier West, but they agreed that a modern story would make a stronger point.

"I have attended trials in Sioux Falls and St. Paul and I've talked to a lot of Indians in those areas," said the writer. "I'm beginning to understand that prejudice is so immense that murders of Indians are sometimes not prosecuted. 'It's making it hard for me to dramatize the story without making it melodramatic.'"

Brando had originally planned to play an Indian in the still untitled film, said Mann, "but he was afraid he would overpower the story if he did."

Instead, Brando will play a white man. Production is expected to begin in November, with real locales and Indians being used.

Appointment opposed

Andrew Adams, a wheelchair-bound polio victim and former athlete, appears to be an ideal man to head the government's Rehabilitation Services Administration. He was appointed to the job April 26 by President Nixon, but many congressmen and rehabilitation counselors oppose the appointment.

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., said that by appointing Adams "the administration is ignoring capable and experienced rehabilitation professionals in favor of someone with little familiarity and no experience with federal vocation rehabilitation program."

Anti-cancer drugs possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government cancer fighters plan to explore a possibility that some of the life-saving anticancer drugs may provide a kind of double-barreled control over malignancy.

New-found tentative evidence indicates that one such drug may sharply reduce any risk of a second, unrelated cancer developing years later as a result of a patient's initial treatment.

The new, still-unsubstantiated evidence was reported recently by Dr. Giulio J. D'Angio of New York's Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases at a conference sponsored by the American Cancer Society at Dallas, Tex. He identified the drug as Actinomycin-D, an antibiotic.

Dr. C. Gordon Zubrod of the National Cancer Institute said the institute plans to explore this evidence.

During the past year, they and others have voiced suspicions that some still-unidentified components of highly-successful drug and/or radiation treatment for certain cancers might cause unrelated second cancers in some patients, primarily children, years later.

Dr. Zubrod, director of the division of cancer treatment at NCI, said a new dimension appears opened up for research—based on the possibility suggested by Dr. D'Angio's report, that certain drugs in the arsenal of the cancer fighters might actually provide some strong built-in insurance against production of such subsequent malignancies.

"That is," he said, "some drugs may diminish the possible risk while others may enhance it, especially when such drugs are combined with radiation." He said researchers now know that radiation sometimes can cause second cancers unrelated to the one originally controlled, and that the task at hand involves identifying the safest and most dangerous drugs and modifying treatments.

Man's death attributed to reports

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Grief over claims that he was responsible for two men who drank themselves to death has ended in the death of bartender Claude Kidd, his widow says.

"It upset him that they were saying something that he wasn't guilty of," Catherine Kidd said Sunday, two days after her bar owner husband died of a heart attack. Kidd, 52, had a history of heart trouble.

Kidd officiated at a Memorial Day "gin duel" staged at his bar between Walter Wade, 39, and Eugene Cole, 32. Both men died within two days of the drinking bout, in which each consumed between 32 and 48 ounces of gin in less than an hour.

"They were close friends, all of them," said Mrs. Kidd. "He went to talk to their families. They felt all right with him, didn't feel angry."

But area newspapers quoted Police Chief Tommy Ray as saying that the Florida Beverage Department had been called to take administrative action against Kidd's bar. Ray was quoted as saying that Kidd possibly could face manslaughter charges. Mrs. Kidd said her husband was deeply hurt by such reports.

Wasted time, money cited by study on jury system

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many citizens called for jury duty feel frustrated by the inefficiency of the courts, a study prepared for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration says.

"Wasting jurors' time is a clear-cut example of the criminal justice system's indifference to the needs of citizens," said Administrator Donald E. Santarelli. "More efficient court operations can make jury service more attractive and meaningful to those who serve."

Santarelli said the efficiency recommendations proposed by the researchers could save the nation's courts $50 million annually.

The director of LEAA's research institute, Gerald M. Caplan, said the courts spend some $200 million a year in juror fees.

The survey of certain state and local courts in Georgia, Maryland, Minnesota, Colorado, New Jersey, Texas and Michigan was conducted by Bird Engineering Research Associates Inc. of Vienna, Va., with a $157,365 LEAA grant.

The researchers urged several procedural changes, including staggering trial schedules rather than starting several trials on the same morning, and notifying jurors in advance of days they need not report to duty.

The survey said many citizens summoned for jury duty are distressed at being told to report to the courthouse daily, then forced to wait in a dingy lounge until they are ultimately selected for a trial.

The study estimated that two million persons are summoned for jury duty in the nation's courts annually and said "it is important that these citizens find their participation in the judicial process meaningful and useful."

Commitment messages sent by Kissinger

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has sent secret messages to Syria and Israel spelling out their unwritten commitments to each other under the Golan Heights disengagement agreement he negotiated, a Lebanese publication reported today.

The Arab World, a usually well-informed digest of Arab news and opinion, said the commitments covered such issues as Palestinian guerrillas, the status of the buffer zone and satellite reconnaissance. It gave no source for its information.

The report said Syrian President Hafez Assad refused to discuss the Palestinian guerrillas with Kissinger but assured him his government would abide by the cease-fire agreement, and "this was interpreted as an assurance that there will be no guerrilla activity from the Syrian side of the truce line with Syria's advance knowledge."

The Arab World said Israel agreed that the buffer zone between the two opposing armies, though under United Nations military control, will revert completely to Syrian sovereignty.

Man in custody in fatal shootings

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Two men were shot to death early Sunday in an apartment in the Argentine district.

The victims were Neil Wheeler, 36, and Edward Peltier, 34. Police passing the building to investigate a minor traffic accident heard the shots and rushed to the building. They took a man in custody as he tried to flee.

Officers said they found a .22 caliber revolver tucked under the man's belt. His name was withheld pending the filing of charges.

Kansas City, Kan., has recorded 19 homicides this year.

The $71 million Harry S. Truman Sports Complex in Kansas City is the site of the world's only side-by-side baseball and football stadium. The American League Royals play in the 42,000-seat Stadium and the 78,000-seat Arrowhead Stadium is home to the Chiefs, former Super Bowl champs.

Add to Watergate: atrocious grammar

In all the comment on the White House Watergate tape transcripts, no one has remarked on another aspect of them: their atrocious grammar. No one, that is, except the assistant editor of the Stamford (Conn.) Weekly Mail.

"Grammar may seem like a minor point at this time," writes Felicity Hofferker in a letter to the New York Times, "but it is something of a shock to realize that a man who not only is a graduate of college and of law school but who has managed to become President of the United States does not know the difference between such verbs as 'lie' and 'lay' ('the men were laying in the bushes,' he says), when to use 'who' or 'whom,' 'like' or 'as,' or the tenses, of verbs."

Grammar is important, she avers. Its whole point is to make meaning clearer. "Perhaps," she suggests, "this is just one more example of how these people became so mixed up."

Technically, of course, Miss Hofferker is correct. The White House transcripts would rate a "D" in any high school English class, quite apart from their content. She's offbase, however, if she expects Americans to be upset by bad grammar. In fact, the case is just the opposite.

It's almost positively un-American to know the difference between lie and lay, who and whom, like and as, etc. Anyone who dies is immediately suspected of undemocratic, elitist tendencies.

As for communication, the whole point of language as used by everyone from presidents to public relations people is not to inform or "make perfectly clear" but to persuade. You can't do that if you don't speak the language of the common man. (NEA)

On with police probe

I doubt if Police Chief Miller really believes Sedalia citizens will read his letter to the editor, accept it as being true, and forget about it. After all, it is 1974 and the shady practices of the Sedalia police department are common knowledge of most Sedalians. Miller's attempt to cleanse himself and his department by his letter is truly disgusting.

The investigation which he and Charles Knapp conducted, as well as the results, are about as reliable as the "investigations" which President Nixon conducted of his aids, Haldeman, Erlichman, Dean et al. Miller's investigation is not credible and should not even be considered final. Mayor Jones' further efforts in seeking the truth are to be applauded.

By mentioning police brutality, yet sidestepping the Saturday night charges, Chief Miller avoided the real matter. If "unidentified witnesses are a dime a dozen," then why aren't efforts made to find real witnesses and ask them to tell what they saw?

With the occurrence of two foul practices by the police in less than a month, the time is right for a thorough, independent, and honest investigation of the police. This issue is too critical for people to forget as Chief Miller would like. The issue really lies in the people's hands now. Public concern is the only way to achieve positive results. Only when a responsible investigation has taken place will the matter be legally settled.

In support of police

I applaud Chief Miller for writing that letter in defense of the police department. It's time people stand up to be counted for law and order and the law enforcement departments and every law enforcement officer. These men lay their lives on the line every day for the people, besides taking verbal and physical abuse from persons that break the law...

I have talked with several of the policemen in Sedalia and they are sincere, dedicated men. It sure isn't the money they are paid that holds them on their jobs. These men are professionals. How many professionals do you know that will work

(for) the money these men do? If all the Sedalia policemen were to quit, in 24 hours Ohio Street would be a shambles, as well as the other business streets. If you don't believe it, just read what happened in Canada.

I know what I'm talking about because I have law enforcement officers in my family, and have had for years. So, come on, you citizens of Sedalia and all over the U.S., get off your apathetic rumps, cheer your police, encourage them and back them up.

Do we have a president or an emperor?

WASHINGTON — Months ago, with typewriter in cheek, I wrote that this President of the United States could shoot his wife on the White House lawn and go scot-free on grounds that normal court procedures do not apply to a sitting President, and that impeachment procedures do not apply because the

President did not kill his wife as part of his "official duties."

Perhaps that struck readers as an absurdity at the time. But they must now sense that Richard M. Nixon has gone even further toward declaring himself "untouchable."

(including several of his key aides) to prison.

Every man and woman in America must honor a proper subpoena, handing over bank records, grocery bills, personal diaries, when a court says these are essential to the maintenance of justice. Every man except Richard Nixon, according to Richard Nixon.

He argues that "the presidency" is a co-equal of the courts and that they have no power to demand evidence or anything else from "the President." And of course Richard Nixon acts as though it never dawned on him that neither "the presidency" nor "the President" is on trial. Neither is suspected of bribe-taking, of being an accessory to burglaries, of encouraging government officials to perjure themselves, of obstructing justice by participating in a cover-up of widespread criminality, or of ordering the payment of "hush money" to those who might explode the cover-up.

It is Richard Nixon the individual who is on trial before the American people.

The issue no longer is whether crimes were committed by the Nixon administration. There is overpowering evidence of unprecedented lawlessness and immorality by the President's top aides. There is evidence beyond any reasonable man's doubt that the President himself was chief architect of "the cover-up."

The only meaningful question now is whether we Americans have let "the presidency" become so powerful that the man in office becomes a law unto himself — if he is brazen enough, or desperate enough, to assert such power.

Americans have thought for almost two centuries that once a President strayed so far from righteousness as to invite impeachment proceedings (and remember, no president has for more than a century), then the House of Representatives was vested with extraordinary powers to investigate, to subpoena, to act as a super grand jury holding even a president accountable to the rule of law.

But here we have Richard Nixon thumbing his nose at the House, telling them that their powers will be limited by him. Nixon will determine what evidence they may have regarding the actions of Nixon. Nixon will decide not to give tapes, but edited and doctored transcripts — on the basis of what Nixon decides is "relevant" to efforts to prove Nixon a crook. Nixon will decide that the House may attempt to impeach him for actions relating to the break-in of Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate, but that he will not recognize efforts to impeach him for alleged bribes from ITT or segments of the dairy industry.

Richard Nixon has uttered his decree that "I have given you the evidence you need, and the evidence I have given you shows me to be innocent."

He has compounded this arrogance by refusing to give the federal courts evidence that could prove his former closest aides innocent or guilty of serious crimes, a ploy that could let his ex-cronies go free in a blatant case of presidential obstruction of justice.

If Richard Nixon gets away with this, our checks-and-balances system of three powerful branches of government is dead. We shall have an emperor, with the courts and legislative bodies virtually powerless to curb even egregious excesses by the executive.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has asked the Supreme Court, in effect, if it is prepared to see this come to pass. Millions of Americans are asking the House and Senate the same thing.

Surely in one of these branches there must be enough people who sense that the issue before this nation transcends political ideology or notions of personal indebtedness to Mr. Nixon for us to halt this grasping of executive tyranny.

c. 1974, Field Enterprises Inc.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Over brandy and a cigar aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia, President Nixon appealed to a dozen conservative congressmen the other evening to take a stand on impeachment.

"If you believe I am innocent," he urged, "vote against impeachment in the House. Don't pass the buck to the Senate."

He reportedly fears many representatives may try to get off the hook by casting a procedural vote for impeachment. They could explain they didn't mean to judge the President but merely wanted to bring the case before the Senate for a decision.

This rationale could produce an overwhelming House vote in favor of impeachment. The psychological impact, he is said to feel, could influence senators to vote to remove him from office.

So as the Sequoia cruised down the rain-swept Potomac, the President asked his conservative House friends to settle the impeachment issue in the House.

He assured them that he has cooperated as far as he could with the House Judiciary Committee, which is inquiring into impeachment. He couldn't release tapes and documents, which might damage U.S. relations with other nations, he said.

He explained that he had had a number of private conversations with other heads of state. It would seriously violate international protocol, he said, if these conversations should be divulged.

The President's shipboard dinner companions were too polite to ask how these conversations could be compromised by release of the Watergate tapes. Presumably, he didn't discuss his Watergate woes with other world leaders.

Merry-go-round

Plea on the Potomac: 'Do not impeach me'

The President, obviously cheered by the success of peace negotiations in the Middle East, was in a bantering, buoyant mood throughout the three-hour dinner cruise.

He joked with his guests about running the Senate. Kissinger could be groomed for the seat of retiring Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., and a bipartisan campaign could be organized to make Kissinger chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the President speculated gleefully.

He suggested that the resourceful Kissinger, as a Senate chairman, might even be able to negotiate peaceful relations between the Senate and the White House.

The President gloated over the defeat of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., which will remove him as Senate Foreign Relations chairman. As next in line, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., would have to give up the Senate banking chairmanship to take over Fulbright's chair.

The President said he hoped Sparkman will choose the Foreign Relations chairmanship, which he has now said he will do. And this would make Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the new Senate Banking chairman.

"Those bankers are beside themselves," chortled Nixon. "The bankers don't want Proxmire."

Speaking seriously, Nixon told his dinner guests that two days before the Syrian-Israeli truce, "I wouldn't have given a 50-50 chance of an agreement."

He told of the dramatic cables Kissinger had sent from the Middle East. Turning to his staff chief Alexander Haig, the President cracked: "If those cables could be published, they would make quite a book, wouldn't they?"

He was optimistic about his forthcoming summit meeting with Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow. The President said he would have more flexibility to negotiate than would Brezhnev. The Soviet leader is far more subservient to the politburo, said Nixon, than most Americans realize.

On the other hand, he said, the Founding Fathers had given the American president more "maneuvering room" than other rulers possess.

Earlier in the evening, Rep. Gillespie Montgomery, D-Miss., asked Nixon magnanimously: "Mr. President, what can we do for you?"

The President responded to this offer by urging his conservative guests to support his veto of "Irresponsible spending bills." Government spending was spurring inflation, he said, which could become the nation's biggest headache.

He also admonished them not to let the Pentagon sell them a military force superior to that of the Soviets. "All we need is to be equal," said the President, "don't you guys let the military push you into superiority."

Footnote: The President served Chateaubriand, with mushrooms, peas and a spaghetti dish. He also passed out Sequoia matchbooks, which he autographed. This was the second time in two weeks that he has taken conservative congressmen on a dinner cruise as part of his effort to gain support against impeachment.

Reading: get back to phonics

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A couple of weeks ago, the Reading Reform Foundation held its annual meeting at the old Park-Sheraton Hotel here. A mile or so away, on Capitol Hill, the Senate was engaged in passing the Omnibus Education Act of 1974. The better dollar value was at the Sheraton.

Kilpatrick

The Reading Reform Foundation is a spunky little outfit, founded in 1961 by the late Watson Washburn of New York City. It exists for one purpose only: to encourage the teaching of reading through emphasis on old-fashioned phonics. The foundation operates on an embarrassing budget — embarrassingly low, that is — but it gets results. The phonetic approach slowly is making a comeback.

It will be weeks or months before local school boards and professional educators fully discover all the goodies spread out for them in the Omnibus Education Act. So much attention was directed toward the controversy over racial-balance busing that the wild proliferation of educational grants and subsidies was obscured. The bill authorizes a staggering $25 billion for federal aid to education over the next four years, including $635 million programs intended to improve reading skills.

If the whole of this $635 million authorization were actually funded, could the money be effectively spent? The melancholy answer is probably no. If some small fraction of this sum were turned over to the Reading Reform Foundation — say, one-tenth of 1 per cent — the taxpayers would get far more per dollar than they ever will get from the professional educators who soon will be romping in clover, crying "oh, oh, jump, jump, and look, look!"

It is a sad situation. The principal sponsors of this new reading program, Senators Glenn Beall of Maryland and Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, have the very best intentions. They are concerned, as thoughtful persons ought to be, about the inability of so many Americans to read. Millions of children, both black and white, have grown into adulthood as functional illiterates, unable to read the printed material they must deal with in everyday life.

The problem cries out for attention. The Nixon administration several years ago began an attack with its Right to Read Program in the Office of Education. The program is budgeted at $12 million a year. This pays for a flock of reading experts, demonstration projects, and the like, but a glum impression cannot be dispelled that the program functions chiefly as a bonanza for bureaucrats, professional grantsmen, paper-shuffling pedagogues, the salesman of educational gimcrackery, and the devisers of tests testing other people's tests.

Senator Beall agrees that the Right to Read Program has had only "spotty success," but he believes the vastly expanded program authorized by his amendment will prove more effective. Local school boards will have considerable discretion in shaping their programs to community needs. Substantial sums would be invested in training reading specialists who would work directly with classroom teachers.

Let us hope for the best. It is an oversimplification to say that teachers are divided into two camps, one under the flag of "phonics" and the other under the flag of "look-and-say." Good teachers borrow from both approaches. Some teachers appear to get promising results, at least temporarily, from various machines and visual aids that have appeared over the past 20 years. But the grim results speak eloquently of failure. None of the glittering new techniques has replaced basic phonics, and until the primacy of phonics is fully restored, the new federal millions are likely to go gurgling down the drain.

The victims of this tragedy — and it is a tragedy — are the children who grow up with only a hazy idea of what reading is all about. It is bad enough that they miss the joy of "good reading," or that they are defeated by the "hard words" of a daily newspaper. Too many of them, irony of ironies, cannot even read the questions on a public welfare form. How will they cope in the Brave New World?

The average net farm income in 1973 was $66,511, which was higher than gross farm income ever was before 1969. It is doubtful if farmers will ever see another 1973. Prices continue to increase faster than costs so profits were wider. These are the results of the Mail-In Record preliminary analysis for 1973. This information was collected from 471 Missouri farm families. The Show-Me area was 51 families of this number.

The value of production per hour was $19.83. The value of farm production per farm was $112,000 in 1973. The average farm managed $375,067 in capital. The operating money averaged $61,000 per farm.

In 1974, product prices have slipped and costs have continued to rise so that profits are declining.

Quality concrete

Ask for a 6 sack mix with 6 gallons of water per sack. The more cement that is used, the stronger the concrete will be. A 6 sack mix will yield 3,000 PSI concrete. Excessive water makes sloppy concrete and sloppy concrete is lower in strength. The specification of a 6 gallon mix will provide both workability and a good quality concrete.

One other item which needs to be specified is air entrainment. Research has shown that concrete which contains microscopic air bubbles has greater resistance to frost action and deterioration from acids such as those in silage or manure and de-icer chemicals on sidewalks. Air entrained concrete contains these bubbles and is made from cement which contains an air entrainment additive. An added advantage is that air entrainment is usually available at the same price as regular concrete. Specify a six per cent air content when you call the ready mix plant.

Bagworms

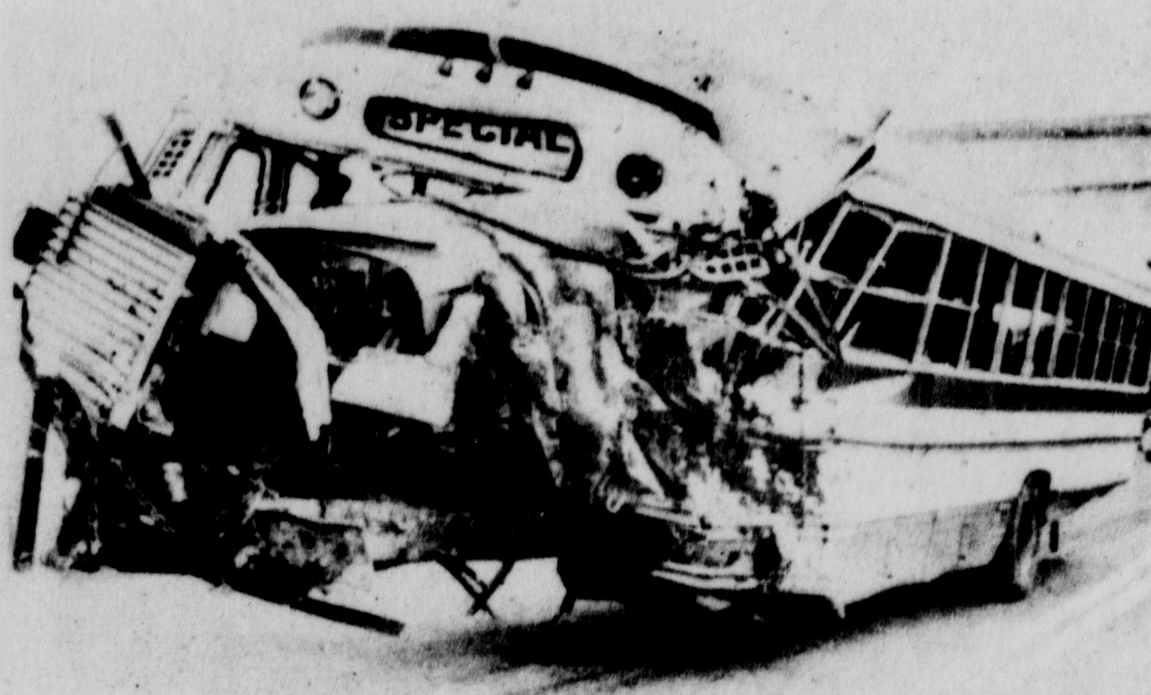

Bagworm eggs are hatching now. The worms are very small but can be seen without too much trouble if infested evergreens are checked rather closely. The silken bags are about one-fourth inch long and cone-shaped. It should be remembered that approximately 1,000 larvae can be expected from a single overwintering female bag.

Control measures should be started. The hatch is earlier this year than in the previous year or two. Best control can be expected against the small larvae.

Sell or feed

With the depressed hog prices we are experiencing now, the question is being asked more and more often. Right now, with present feeder pig and market hog and corn prices, finishing hogs is largely a "non-profit" enterprise — unless one prices the manure awfully high.

But for the farmer with finishing facilities already erected and corn in the bin, the enterprise will probably not be a "loser" and the probability is pretty good that things will get better in the next several months. If he's been in the hog business a few years, he's been through this before, like 1971. It will probably pay dividends to wait for when things get better. The feed cost is $22 now with corn selling for $2.50 and protein $7.50 on a farrowing to finish hog operation.

13 persons killed

The wreckage of a bus crash Saturday which killed 13 members of a Golden Age Club enroute to an island picnic and injured 30 others 60 miles northwest of Quebec City is shown above. Police said it appeared the bus lost its brakes and plummeted down an incline at a high speed before finally turning over in a ravine.

Vietnam hero fighting in marijuana conflict

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Kenneth Kays is not your government-issue hero. His victory garden is full of marijuana, and he is determined to keep it as a symbol of his freedom.

Kays, 24, won the Medal of Honor and was honored at the White House for his heroism in Vietnam.

A draft resister-turned-medic, Kays lost a leg in battle in May 1970 but repeatedly crawled past his lines to rescue and treat wounded comrades.

Today his battleground is a 1,000 square-foot patch near his trailer in this southern Illinois town where he farms the illegal marijuana plants for his own personal use.

With practiced ease, he swings down the rows on his artificial leg hoeing, raking and tilling. A headband secures his long, sun-tinted hair which cascades into his beard.

Kays was raised in Fairfield, population 6,000, and attended Southern Illinois University. He was discharged from the Army in 1970, and has been living here on disability checks since.

What he did in Vietnam and what he is doing now are part of the same personal quest for freedom and what is just, even if it conflicts with the law, Kays said.

Kays resisted going into military service. When his induction notice came, he left for Canada. But, unsure he was doing the right thing, he reported 31 days late and volunteered to be a medic.

The medal he earned has no value of itself, only the experience it represents, and has often been a source of trouble, he said, brings him unwanted attention and praise.

Kays, arrested twice and convicted once for possession and cultivation of marijuana, was sentenced to one year's probation.

Two weeks after his first arrest, the sheriff discovered Kays was still growing marijuana and arrested him again. The prosecutor is seeking to revoke probation.

"I don't wish to fight, but I'm not going to quit," he said. "I will trust to the courts to see that justice is done. My only weapon is the truth. No man has the right to dictate to another."

Economic leadership is blasted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New political leadership is needed to correct the nation's economic woes, the president of the United Auto Workers union told delegates to the group's 24th constitutional convention.

"The economic management of the country is in palsied hands," Leonard Woodcock said Sunday as he helped open the UAW's week-long gathering.

"As President Nixon stalls impeachment proceeding... the situation worsens," Woodcock said. He added: "We look to the 1974 elections to correct this situation. We are in trouble in this country because the executive branch has abused its power. We seek to restore a balance of power. We aren't asking for a veto-proof Congress, just one that's responsive."

About 60 dissident UAW members picketed outside the Los Angeles Convention Center before Woodcock's hour-long address to an estimated 2,700 delegates and 1,000 international representatives of the union.

Gallup poll shows Ford behind Kennedy

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would outpoll Vice President Gerald R. Ford if a presidential election were held now, according to the latest Gallup poll.

In a poll of 1,543 adults May 10-13, 50 per cent preferred Kennedy, 39 per cent favored Ford and 11 per cent were undecided on how they would vote.

Other Gallup surveys conducted this year identified the two men as the top choices of Democratic and Republican voters for the presidential nominations of their parties.

The latest poll followed recent Gallup findings that 24 per cent of American voters identified themselves as Republicans, 42 per cent said they were Democrats and 34 per cent identified themselves as independents.

Beverage provided to everyone International cooperation emphasized

SEATTLE (AP) — Earl Leonard sits in his room at the Olympic Hotel surrounded by cases of Coca Cola stacked four feet high. And with a deep Southern drawl he speaks of his job.

"We'd better put plenty of Coke in that police ready room. Those security boys are on duty 24 hours a day, and we'd best do something nice for 'em."

The 37-year-old Leonard, of Atlanta, has attended every National Governors' Conference since 1966 as the on-the-scene representative of the Coca Cola Co.

Coca Cola is one of about a dozen corporate sponsors of the conference, that donate goods and services for the goodwill generated.

But Leonard is a little different from some corporate representatives at the conference who are concentrating their favors on VIP guests. Coolers full of Coke can be found not only in the suites of the governors but in press rooms, organizational rooms and even a special interrogation room maintained by Seattle police.

Coke has even been furnished to eight visiting Soviet regional officials—even though Pepsi Cola recently won the coveted right to build a bottling plant in Russia.

Who drinks the most Coke at a National Governors' Conference?

"The police," says Leonard, "because most of the time they have nothing to do but sit and wait in hot hotel rooms. We were at Lake of the Ozarks, Mo., back in 1970. The state troopers and National Guard must've drank up $6,000 worth of Coke."

"It's a lot cooler here," said Leonard with a sigh of relief.

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — United States and Russian governors participated in ceremonies at the Expo '74 world's fair over the weekend that emphasized international cooperation.

Eight governors of Soviet federated republics were led by Aleksandr P. Lyazhko, chairman of the Ukrainian Council of Ministers. Washington Gov. Dan Evans welcomed Govs. Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, Christopher Bond of Missouri, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas and Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire.

Lyazhko told a luncheon audience that flying the U.S. and Russian flags together wasn't an accident.

"This is the result of meetings between our leaders and yours. Let me thank you for the warmth I feel, the friendly attitude, as signified by our flags."

"I hope our relations continue to improve, to the benefit of our nations and the world at large," he said.

Bond told a Soviet minister who he sat next to that there were many similarities between Missouri and the Russian official's territory.

"I suppose our differences come in how we encourage industrial production. We like to think that we are encouraging industry in our state," he said.

Rural people are still leaving school sooner

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although people are going to school longer than they used to, those in rural areas still are dropping out sooner than their city cousins, the Agriculture Department says.

During the decade of the 1960s, according to the department's Economic Research Service, people generally added about one and a half years to their schooling. Based on 1970 census figures, the median number of years spent going to school for persons 25 or older was slightly more than 12.

That means one-half of the population had more than the median years of schooling and one-half had fewer. But in totally rural counties, researchers found, the median school career lagged the national average by a full two years.

Since 1960, however, people in rural counties added two years to their schooling, while those in urban areas increased by one year, the report said.

Further, the study showed that the percentage of college graduates in rural counties was less than one-half of the national average.

"About 1 in 20 persons who were 25 years of age or older were college graduates in these rural areas, compared with the 1970 national average of better than 1 in 10," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has turned down an industry request for permission to put more fat in beef sausage than the 30 per cent now allowed under federal regulations.

Officials said the request related only to seasoned beef sausage and not to hamburger, which, along with hot dogs and other cooked sausage products, also has a 30 per cent fat limit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The impact of higher commodity prices on farm exports was illustrated today in a report by the Agriculture Department on sales to Eastern Europe.

During 1972-73, the Foreign Agricultural Service said, farm sales to the region were valued at $500 million, up from $200 million in 1971-72.

About one-third of the increase was attributed to higher commodity prices, the report said. If those had held steady, the 1972-73 value would have been about $400 million.

Farm exports to Eastern Europe this fiscal year, ending June 30, are expected to be around $800 million. Most of that increase also was attributed to higher prices, the report said.

Oddities are noted in financial markets

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Economic instability is producing some odd consequences in the financial markets. Cash, for instance, is considered by many to be the best investment, all things considered.

The main ingredient of that term "all things" is doubt—doubt about the likelihood of economic equilibrium returning soon, doubt about the chances of conventional investment outlets growing more attractive.

Stockholders of Slater, Walker Securities Ltd., a London-based conglomerate, were growing increasingly restless as they saw the firm's assets sold off for cash. Financial trouble? No. As the chairman explained at the company's annual meeting, the world's economy is in a critical condition. It is becoming increasingly difficult to invest in industry because of stock market slumps and socialism.

Cash, he told relieved shareholders, is "high yielding, relatively secure and easy to manage."

American money managers also seem attracted to cash. Mutual funds are organized to invest mainly in corporate shares. But many mutual funds are keeping a large portion of their money in cash instead of stocks.

Ironically, this conservative posture may be one of the big reasons why the stock market fails to move ahead. If money remains on the sidelines it is of no use to the stock market.

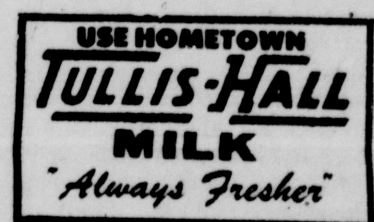

While the cash position of mutual funds is now approaching 10 per cent of assets, a very high figure, the cash position of bank trust departments may be even higher. They too are reluctant to commit their cash.

While investor indolence has a history of many months, a new factor conceivably could be introduced that also would keep money from being invested in productive industry.

It's an old element: Gold.

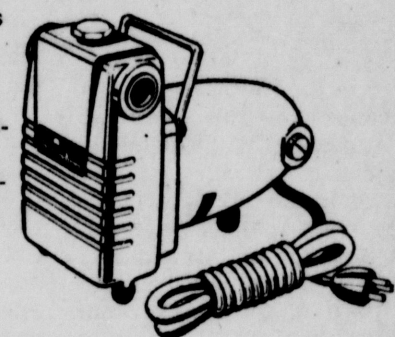

The U.S. Senate last week voted to permit Americans to own gold beginning Sept. 1. The gold market, which has been quieting down in recent weeks, grew excited again.

Based on the manner in which Americans have been collecting antiques and silver and plates and art, which they feel have intrinsic as well as paper value, they would also hoard gold if they were permitted to get their hands on it. They have been forbidden to do so since 1933. Informed guesses now suggest the House will balk again at granting permission.

Indians 5, Royals 2

Gaylord Perry notches ninth straight victory

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I just hope I can continue to pitch this way and I'll have a good year," said Cleveland Indian pitcher Gaylord Perry in a classic case of understatement.

Perry, who won the Cy Young Award in 1972, worked his way closer to another one Sunday afternoon when he allowed the Kansas City Royals six hits and the Indians won 5-2.

Perry was obviously glad to get the victory, his ninth consecutive against one loss, but was upset with his control.

"I'm a little disgusted with my control today," Perry said. "I was trying to be real careful with the batters. I really respect the Kansas City lineup, but I should have had better control."

"I was glad to get those five runs. They gave me some breathing room."

"And I got a lot of defensive help also. That foul ball that (Dave) Duncan caught leaning into the stands, and getting (Amos) Otis out at the plate really helped."

Offensive, Perry received assistance from solo homers by Leron Lee, Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan.

Lee hit his home run in the first inning to tie the score 1-1 and it was his third in two days. He hit a grand slam and solo homer in Saturday's contest.

The Tribe took a 4-1 lead in the fourth on the back-to-back homers of Gamble and Duncan, and Jack Brohamer scored on a fielder's choice, after singling and reaching third on an error.

The Indians final run came in the seventh inning when John Lowenstein—with some heads-up base running—scored from second on Charlie Spikes' fly ball that was lost in the sun between outfielders Vada Pinson and Otis.

Fred Patek scored the Royals' first run in the opening frame. Patek walked, was sacrificed to second and scored on John Mayberry's bloop single.

The second tally came in the seventh when the Royals put together singles by Richie Scheinblum and Fran Healy and a walk to George Brett.

Terry Bradshaw doubts that WFL will survive

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Terry Bradshaw was at the news conference to announce he had spurned the World Football League to stay with the Pittsburgh Steelers, but in casual chatter beforehand he mentioned his beef cattle spread in Louisiana.

"There's a lot more money right now in raising hogs, but it sounds better to say you have a ranch than a pig farm," he said with a grin as he flicked an ash from a long cigar.

That same regard for his public image may have influenced Bradshaw's decision to sign a new multiyear contract with Pittsburgh of the National Football League, even though there were hints the New York Stars of WFL offered more money.

"Well, I didn't like the idea of playing in small stadiums that may not be filled ... and I still haven't taken this team to a Super Bowl," acknowledged the 25-year-old quarterback, first choice in the 1970 NFL draft.

Bradshaw, who still has a year left on his current five-year agreement with Pittsburgh, added that he had doubts about whether the WFL can survive.

Another of Bradshaw's misgivings included joining a league that is still rounding up players and coaches and even more basically gathering equipment.

Bradshaw was not selected in the WFL draft, but he was contacted later by New York Stars' Coach Babe Parilli, who tutored Bradshaw the past three seasons as an assistant at Pittsburgh.

"We did get a very substantial first offer from New York, and we were told we could expect an even more substantial second offer," said Bradshaw's attorney Les Zittrich.

Yet Zittrich said the second offer was never solicited and that Bradshaw signed with the Steelers late Saturday afternoon. Details of the new contract were not disclosed.

Wohlhuter goes 3:55.1

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Rick Wohlhuter is a world record holder in the 880-yard run, but he wanted to prove he could also run with the good milers. He did.

Seven in the mile field of ten in the United States Track and Field Federation Championship Saturday night blazed across the finish line in under four minutes, led by Wohlhuter in 3:55.1.

The 25-year-old Chicago Track Club star was disappointed.

"I wish I didn't have to lead all the way ... If I had someone to pace me, it would have been a better time ... I think I could run better than that."

Following Wohlhuter across the line was Len Hilton of the Pacific Coast Club in 3:56.7; Bruce Fisher, Chicago Track Club, 3:58.5; Ted Castenada, Colorado, 3:58.5; Keith Palmer, 3:59.2, and Jeff Shemmel, 3:59.4, both of Kansas State, and Paul Craig, Texas, 3:59.8.

Wohlhuter's mile was the seventh best ever run in the

Sedalia Implement loses doubleheader

LaMONTE — Max's Tavern of LaMonte won a Tri-County Softball doubleheader over Sedalia Implement Sunday night, 6-4 and 7-6.

Jim Ripley hit a two-run homer in the sixth for the deciding runs in the opener.

LaMonte scored three runs in the sixth in the nightcap on a pair of singles and two fielding errors to notch the sweep. Bill Matthews was the winner.

Rich Shreman, who homered for Sedalia Implement in the opener, and Pete Maxwell were the losing pitchers.

United States and the 16th fastest time worldwide, but it's back to the 880 for the former Notre Dame cinderman for the next couple of weekends.

Other meet marks included a 13:22.8 three-mile by John Halberstadt of the Pacific Coast Club; Casey Carrigan, also of the Pacific Coast Club, with a 17-foot, six inch pole vault; Mary Jacob, unattached, with a women's shotput of 44-8½; and Texas Women's University 440-yard relay, 45.9.

Wohlhuter said he had been anticipating the visit to the Wichita State University track, Uni-turf, a hard, composition rubber surface. "I like this track and this was the time," he said.

Central St. faces New Haven today

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The University of New Haven faces Central Missouri State today in NCAA College Division II baseball tournament play. California-Irvine plays New Orleans.

New Haven eliminated Valdosta State College Sunday, blanking the Georgia team 1-0. California-Irvine slammed Ohio Northern 8-1, and New Orleans downed Central Missouri 6-2.

California-Irvine has now won 31 games in a row, and has a 46-7 record.

New Orleans scored five runs in the sixth inning of their game Sunday night. The big inning was sparked by a two-run homer by Gary Stanton.

The familiar Bill Utz, Roy Hibbard dual continued Saturday and Sunday in Jefferson City and Marshall. Utz, Sedalia, won the sprint car feature at Capital Speedway near Jefferson City Saturday, taking the checker ahead of Jay Lyle, Warrensburg, and Hibbard of Marshall.

Sunday night at Saline County Speedway in Marshall, Hibbard prevailed in the feature event, capturing first-place ahead of Utz.

Cleveland Indians' Gaylord Perry fires to the plate during the Tribe's 5-2 win over Kansas City Sunday in Cleveland. Perry won his ninth straight game and

4-run eighth pushes Cards past Padres

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If putting it all together means success in baseball, the San Diego Padres have yet to learn the lesson.

The Padres, the tailenders of the National League West, pounded out 17 hits Sunday but somehow managed to come up losers again, 9-6.

"That's been our story," sighed gray-haired Manager John McNamara, whose club led the St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 in the eighth inning.

"When we get pitching we haven't been getting any hitting," McNamara lamented. "When we get hitting, we haven't been getting the pitching."

Pitching, however, was not the Padres' worst suit until an erratic infield opened the door for the Cardinals, who made the most of nine hits.

Fleet Bake McBride was safe on Rich Morales' error to star the St. Louis eighth. Ken Reitz was walked purposely then Luis Melendez singled sharply for a 6-6 deadlock.

Cards newcomer Jack Heidemann forced Melendez with Reitz holding second. Tom Heintzelman singled on the infield and Ted Sizemore walked to force home Reitz.

That gave the Cards a 7-6 edge and enough to win but Reggie Smith's third hit, a single, produced two bonus unearned runs.

The Cards got two runs in the sixth off two singles, two walks and a passed ball for a 5-3 lead.

San Diego got one of the runs back on Dave Roberts' pop fly double in the seventh and climbed on top on run-producing singles by Bobby Tolan and Willie McCovey an inning later.

Veteran Tim McCarver afterward had words to summarize the loose marathon, which featured the deployment of six Cards pitchers among 35 players in all.

Rain nets Judy Rankin Baltimore golf crown

BALTIMORE (AP)—Kathy Whitworth says a rain-shortened golf tournament leaves "an unfinished feeling," but Sunday's storm didn't dampen the spirits of Judy Rankin.

"A win is a win," said Mrs. Rankin, who pocketed a check for $5,700 after officials of the Baltimore Golf Championship canceled the final round and declared her the winner with a two-under par 144 for 36 holes.

Mrs. Rankin conceded that it "takes a little off by sort of backing in," but noted she had played well in the first two rounds except for consecutive bogies on the 13th, 14th and 15th holes in Saturday's second round.

Before faltering, Mrs. Rankin held a four-stroke lead and was threatening to make a runaway of the $40,000 tournament. But she was on top at the end of each round, while successfully defending a tournament title for the first time.

The abrupt ending supplied an unexpected bonus for Mrs. Rankin. "I was getting pretty tired, because I haven't had a week off all year," she said. "This should help me in getting ready for Las Vegas."

A $100,000 tournament opens in Las Vegas, Nev., on Thursday, and difficulty in lining up airline passage helped convince officials to cancel the final round rather than reschedule it for today. In addition, the course was in bad shape after two days of rain.

Sam Houston, Lewis College tangle in winners' bracket

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Sam Houston State of Texas and Lewis of Illinois, the only undefeated teams in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' baseball tournament, face each other tonight at 8 p.m.

Afternoon games send David Lipscomb of Tennessee against Point Park of Pennsylvania and Wisconsin-Oshkosh against LaVerne of California.

In winners' bracket games Sunday night, Sam Houston's Ron Kainer allowed only two hits as the Texas team shut out Lipscomb, 4-0, and Lewis got the winning run in the bottom of the ninth, defeating LaVerne, 8-7.

Kainer struck out seven and walked only one. His teammates picked up four unearned runs in the fifth off loser Steve Thornton.

Lewis' Walt Onysio, who in nine previous trips to the plate had only one hit, smacked a triple in the ninth, then scampered home on a throwing error back into the infield.

LaVerne, trailing in the fifth 7-1, had rallies of two runs in the sixth and four in the top of the ninth to tie it.

In a losers' bracket game earlier Sunday, Wisconsin-Oshkosh eliminated Fort Hays State of Kansas, 11-3. Wisconsin's 13-hit attack was led by outfielder Lynn Held, who had four in five trips.

The Kansas team got only three hits from Wisconsin pitcher Dan Olson.

Menne won't buckle in playoff

Sedalia, Boonville stay tied in West

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — He'd often considered quitting. He'd won less than $30,000 in 3½ years. Car trouble coming into Charlotte had just about busted him. He was down to gas money to the next stop. His wife was cooking hamburgers in the motel room.

And, with that background and that pressure, longshot Bob Menne birdied the final hole of regulation play to gain a tie and then scored from 30 feet on the first hole of sudden death to win the $50,000 first prize in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

"It means everything to me," the curly-haired man from Massachusetts said after his dramatic triumph Sunday. "It means the Masters and the Tournament of Champions. And it means money."

"Golly, $50,000."

Menne, 32, a struggler throughout his six-year tour career, whipped an iron shot to within six feet of the cup for the birdie on the 72nd hole that caught front-running Jerry Heard, then defeated the easy-going guy with the dramatic birdie putt on the first playoff hole.

"If I have to lose," said Heard, "I'm glad it's to Bob. He needs the money. I'm glad it's him and not somebody like (Jack) Nicklaus that's got more money than he'll ever need."

And Nicklaus and all the other great names in the game were in the field. They had to be. The tournament, which offered $250,000 in total prizes, is one of three designated tournaments on the schedule, tournaments in which the game's leading players are required to play.

Menne had to win his way into the field by qualifying in an 18-hole round on Monday.

He won it with a final round of 67 and a total of 270, 18 under par on the 7,085-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Heard matched that total with a last-round 70.

Dave Hill just missed the playoff by a single stroke at 271. He bolted into contention on the strength of a brilliant, seven-under-par 65 in the last round. Lee Trevino, also in contention until the last nine holes, had a 69—272.

Billy Casper and J.C. Sneed, each with a 69, were at 273. The other big guns were strung out further back.

Jack Nicklaus had 70—278. Johnny Miller was 70—280. Gary Player scored 72—286. Arnold Palmer and Tom Weiskopf started but didn't qualify for the final two rounds.

Watch the birdie

Bob Menne of Lawrence, Mass., gestures with a clenched fist after sinking a birdie putt on the 18th hole of the final round of the Kemper Open Golf Tournament Sunday in Charlotte, N.C. The birdie forced a playoff with Jerry Herd, which Menne won on the first hole by sinking another birdie. (UPI)

Mad Oakland Athletics extend division margin

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's are still mad at the world... and the rest of the American League's West Division isn't laughing much, either.

The A's, who seem to play best when they're sore about something, had a couple of gripes as they ran their winning streak to four games and 17 of 23 with Sunday's 6-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The two-time world champs are starting to put some daylight between themselves and the rest of the division. After the victory over the Brewers, the A's have a 3½-game bulge over the second-place Kansas City Royals.

Elsewhere, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5 in 10 innings, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Chicago White Sox 9-7, the Cleveland Indians trimmed Kansas City 5-2, the New York Yankees pounded the Minnesota Twins 11-1 and the Detroit Tigers shaded the California Angels 2-0.

Winning pitcher Catfish Hunter was angry about being lifted. And some A's were upset by a post-game player move that saw backup first baseman Pat Bourque sent to the minors.

Hunter checked the Brewers on seven hits, including Bob Coluccio's second-inning homer, before giving way to Rolie Fingers after two-out singles by George Scott and Darrell Porter in the eighth inning. Bob Hansen greeted the reliever with a run-scoring single.

Bourque, hitting a solid .286, was farmed out to make room for light-hitting infielder Dal Maxvill, reactivated from the disabled list.

Oakland's key hitting was done by Reggie Jackson, who slammed his 14th and 15th home runs, and Joe Rudi, who cracked a three-run shot.

Red Sox 9, White Sox 7

Rico Petrocelli drilled a pair of two-run homers, one of them capping a five-run third inning. The victory was the 11th in the last 14 games for the Red Sox and gave them a 1½-game lead over Milwaukee in the American League East.

Yankees 11, Twins 1

Home runs by Lou Piniella, Rick Dempsey and Ron Blomberg sparked a seven-run sixth inning that helped Mel Stottlemyre snap a personal five-game losing streak and post his first victory since April 30.

Tigers 2, Angels 0

Norm Cash broke up a scoreless duel with an eighth-inning home run and Woodie Fryman and John Hiller blanked California on four hits.

Orioles 6, Rangers 5

Rich Coggins singled home pinch runner Al Bumbry with two out in the 10th inning, giving rookie Wayne Garland his first major league triumph with 5-2-3 innings of two-hits relief.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 6

Mike Marshall, making his 34th appearance of the season, walked Jerry Morales and Billy Williams in the seventh inning, then Jose Cardenal drove his fourth homer of the season into the left field bleachers, putting Chicago in front 6-4. Then Rick Monday doubled and scored what proved to be the winning run on a single by Carmen Fanzone.

Memphis could get two football teams

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis, a city that didn't have a professional football team in April, may have two this month.

"It's possible the city will have two pro football teams," said Mike Lynn, leader of an eight-year drive to obtain a National Football League expansion team for the city.

NFL supporters say Memphis has a good chance of being named as a franchise site by NFL owners at their meeting Tuesday in New York, in spite of the fact that the World Football League has established the Memphis Southmen.

"I am cautiously optimistic, but I don't want to predict any longer what the NFL may or may not do," said Lynn, president of Mid-South Sports Inc. "Memphis was the favorite city of the NFL owners prior to the April meetings and I have found the owners' position the same."

Lamar Hunt, owner of the NFL Kansas City Chiefs, said Memphis has a high level of interest from a 14 or more of the NFL's 26 owners.

Other cities considered major bidders for an expansion team are Seattle and Phoenix.

Despite the comments from Memphis, in Seattle, King County Executive John Spellman indicates he is hardly even worried. And, he has been invited to Tuesday's meeting in New York.

"There are no problems," he said. "I remain very optimistic. I can't see anything going wrong now."

For Seattle, already pushed aside once this year in its NFL bid as Tampa, Fla., got the nod, another loss at the hands of the big league could mean more support for the new World Football League, which has indicated an interest in putting a team in Seattle.

Braves back Capra with 16 hits

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The "long man" is the guy in the bullpen who can be counted on to pitch five or six solid innings of relief.

To Buzz Capra, "long" meant about two years.

The New York Mets' castoff and refugee from the bullpen, who's been trying for that long to show he really is a starter, is achieving his goal.

On Sunday, though, he had to work to prove it. He gave up 10 Montreal hits—but none of the baserunners managed to get back where they started—home plate.

So, backed by a 16-hit Atlanta assault, the Braves' right-hander coasted, in a manner of speaking, to a 9-0 rout over the Expos.

In Sunday's other National League games, the Chicago Cubs edged Los Angeles 7-6, Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 5-1, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 4-3 and St. Louis outlasted San Diego 9-6. The Mets' game against Houston was rained out.

The Braves picked Capra up in a straight cash deal. So far, he's been a bargain.

Braves manager Eddie Mathews started using him when starter Ron Reed was injured facing San Diego May 15. Capra came on and, with some late help, picked up a shutout victory.

And he's been coming on strong as a starter since then, four-hitting the Dodgers May 19, shutting out Houston on three hits May 24, pitching nine innings of three-hit ball in the Braves' 10-inning 2-1 victory over Philadelphia last Tuesday night, then blanking the Expos.

Philis 4, Giants 3

Greg Luzinski crashed a two-run homer, capping a four-run eighth inning that powered the Philis past the Giants.

Reds 5, Pirates 1

Tony Perez' 100th career homer in Cincinnati and 10th of the season triggered a three-run burst in the third inning that paced the Reds past Pittsburgh.

NAIA tennis tournament opens in KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — California Baptist of Riverside, Calif., has three players among the top eight seeds at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tennis tournament, which opened at six Kansas City area clubs this morning.

The tournament's No. 1 seed is Dave Petersen of Gustavus Adolphus, St. Peter, Minn.

The Riverside school has John Blomberg, No. 3; Bengt Anthin, No. 5; and Dave Lucky, No. 8.

Others in the top eight are Craig Edwards, University of Redlands, Calif., No. 2; Stan Frank, Texas Southern, No. 4; Buddy Miles, Belhaven College, No. 6; and Swed Abid, East Texas State, No. 7.

Two-hundred and five singles entries representing 46 schools are scheduled to participate.

Each of the top seeds has drawn a bye in the opening round.

Rome tennis title captured by Evert

ROME (AP) — It wasn't her richest victory, but Chris Evert was really happy she had finally won a major international tennis tournament.

Miss Evert, 19, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., beat 17-year-old Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-3 Sunday in the final of the women's singles at the Rome Tennis Open.

Miss Evert plays in the French Open later this week. She was a finalist there last year, as she was in Rome and Wimbledon.

The women's top prize in Rome was $5,000. Miss Evert has won much more in other tournaments.

"It's not just the money, it's the prestige," she said. "That's why I want to win in Paris, too."

Miss Evert and Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union were declared the winners in the women's doubles. West Germans Helga Masthoff and Heide Orth defaulted and the match was not played.

Fourth-seeded Stan Smith, meanwhile, bowed to top-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 in the semifinals of men's singles competition in one of the American's poorest performances on clay.

Nastase was to play for the title Monday against the winner of the semifinal between third-seeded Bjorn Borg of Norway and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina. Their battle was postponed by darkness.

Cooper, McCune win cart features

Don Cooper and Blair McCune won the slow and fast features respectively Saturday night at the E-Z Speedway go-cart track, south of Sedalia.

Cooper won over Elwood Fisher in the slow heat, while McCune placed first ahead of Bruce Mowry.

Chris Schwermer was the winner in the trophy dash and the fast heat. Ken Woolery placed first in the slow heat.

Walther's brother dies in boat crash

MIAMI (AP) — The day before George "Skip" Walther died, he foresaw no problem in adjusting to a racing boat larger than any he ever had driven.

"You have to run 140, 150 miles an hour in the five-litre boats to be competitive," he said. "You can't do much better than that in an unlimited here."

At 150 m.p.h. Sunday, the Red Man hydroplane Walther was driving in a trial run around the tight-tuned Miami Marine Stadium bounced out of control, its 6,500 pounds turning over onto him.

He was declared dead less than a half hour later, having suffered massive skull fractures and brain injuries. His right arm was severed at the elbow.

Walther's wife Sandy, pregnant with the couple's first child, saw her husband's spill from the pits. She was treated for shock after accompanying Walther to the hospital where he died.

Walther, 27, was supposed to be driving his own boat in the $30,000 unlimited regatta. But a delay in its completion and an injury to Red Man owner Jim McCormick earlier in the week changed that.

Walther's father George N. Walther Jr. of Dayton, Ohio, has raced hydroplanes for years. His brother Dave "Salt" Walther was severely burned in a spectacular crash at the Indianapolis 500 last year. Salt, who also pilots hydroplanes, made a comeback this year, finishing 17th at Indy.

Brian Redman wins fifth straight race

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Brian Redman, still savoring his fifth straight Formula 5000 road racing victory, predicts tougher competition for the balance of 1974.

"This race is not a good indication of what's going to come in this series," said the 37-year-old Briton Sunday after his 74-second triumph over American Brett Langer in the Mid-Ohio opener.

"The other teams will become more competitive," added Redman, the runnerup to 1973 Formula 5000 driving champion Jody Scheckter of South Africa.

Redman drove his factory-backed Lola T332 to an average speed of 99.023 miles per hour over Mid-Ohio's twisting 2.4 miles of asphalt. He took one hour, one minute, and 4.6 seconds for the 100.8 miles.

Two of Redman's red hot challengers, 1969 Indianapolis 500 victor Mario Andretti and Canadian Eppi Wietzes, ran afoul of mechanical problems and failed to finish.

Andretti, who led Redman in a blistering pace for the first 23 laps, lost the lead on lap 24 and dropped out on the 35th lap.

Wietzes, a former Canadian national driving champion, was less than 50 yards behind Andretti and Redman when he blew an engine on the 19th lap.

Sedalia and Boonville remained in a Western Division tie Sunday in the Central Missouri Baseball loop by virtue of wins over Huntsville and New Franklin.

Sedalia, which pushed its record to 3-1, rode a four-run rally in the fifth inning, to upend Huntsville, 4-2, in Huntsville Sunday.

Boonville, which also sports a 3-1 record, defeated New Franklin, 5-1.

In other action around the league Sunday, Marshall swept a doubleheader from Lexington, 4-1 and 2-0, to stay right on the heels of the Western Division leaders.

Dan Bestgen and Kelly Odneal combined for a two-hitter to push Tipton past California, 9-1.

Jefferson City downed Centralia, 11-6.

Nolan Schubert and Jim Coffelt highlighted Sedalia's four-run outburst in the fifth against Huntsville with a double and a single respectively. The two shared the hitting honors with two hits in four tries.

Randy Kidwell and Willie Reed picked up Sedalia's other two hits.

Terry Hudson was the winning pitcher, scattering seven hits. Paul Kostopolus worked the ninth.

Mark O'Bannon was the losing pitcher.

Bestgen struck out eight batters in only seven innings of work for Tipton. Bestgen has yet to give up an earned run this season in 16 innings.

The doubleheader sweep by Marshall pushed them within one-half game of the division co-leaders.

Jefferson City leads the East with a 3-0 record.

Sedalia plays its first home game Thursday night at 8 p.m. in Liberty Park against Marshall.

The roll call report

Slim vote to increase debt ceiling

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 23 through May 29.

HOUSE

FEDERAL DEBT CEILING — Passed, 191 for and 190 against, a bill to raise the federal debt ceiling from $475 to $495 billion. The Administration had requested a $505 billion ceiling.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Supporters argued that the increase is needed to pay for programs already funded. They said failure to raise the ceiling would result in fiscal chaos. Rep. El Ullman (D-Ore) said, "We have no alternative but to vote this bill out."

Opponents argued that a lower ceiling would force Congress to cut back on programs that stimulate inflation. Rep. LaMar Baker (R-Tenn) said, "This country has to wake up... We can no longer price ourselves out of existence."

Reps. William Randall and Richard Ichord voted no.

ABORTIONS — Passed, 290 for and 91 against, an amendment to bar the use of federal anti-poverty funds "for medical assistance and supplies" for abortions.

The amendment was offered to a bill to dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity by turning over most of its functions to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Supporters of the amendment argued that taxpayer's dollars should not be used for abortions.

Opponents argued that the amendment would discriminate against poor women. One opponent, Rep. Donald Fraser (D-Minn) said that in barring the funds "we would not outlaw abortion, we would only outlaw it for poor people."

Randall and Ichord voted yes.

ANTI-POVERTY PROGRAM — Rejected, 94 for and 284 against, an amendment to give the Secretary of HEW total control of community action agencies, the core units of the Great Society's War on Poverty.

In rejecting the amendment, the House voted to keep language to create an independent Community Action Administration within HEW. The new administration would fund local anti-poverty efforts, such as day-care centers and job programs, that now are funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity. OEO will go out of existence on June 30, 1974.

Supporters argued that anti-poverty efforts should be under Administration control. They said creating an independent Community Action Administration merely perpetuates OEO, but with a new name. Rep. Albert Quie (R-Minn) argued against "letting the whole thing go on as before."

Opponents argued that community action programs need to be insulated from the Administration because it wants to gut anti-poverty efforts. Rep. William Steiger (R-Wis) said Congress must tell

HEW "that we believe in the independence of community action."

Randall and Ichord voted no.

NEW POVERTY AGENCY — Passed, 331 for and 53 against, a bill to dismantle OEO. The bill (H.R. 14449), however, would keep more OEO programs alive by transferring them to HEW. It now goes to the Senate.

The bill authorized $3.7 billion in anti-poverty funds for fiscal years 1975 through 1977, with $1 billion earmarked for the nation's 900 community action agencies (above vote).

Supporters argued that the government is obliged to help the poor improve their lot. Most of those voting against agreed with President Nixon that the War on Poverty has been largely a failure.

Randall and Ichord voted yes.

SENATE

INTERNATIONAL AID — Passed, 55 for and 27 against, a bill to loan $1.5 billion to poor nations by way of the International Development Association, the so-called "soft loan window" of the World Bank.

Borrowing nations have fifty years to pay back loans, at one per cent interest. The loans pay for electrical plants and other basic economic improvements.

The bill now goes to the House, which rejected a similar bill last January.

Supporters argued that the loans are needed desperately by the world's poorest nations, such as Bangladesh, to keep one step ahead of starvation. Other members said a healthy world economy helps the U.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) aid the IDA is "a channel for bridging the gap" between the rich world and the poor world.

Opponents argued that the money could be better used domestically for such things as home mortgages. Sen. Harry Byrd (I-Va) said, "This throwing away of tax funds ... must come to a halt."

Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton voted no.

SOVIET AID — Tabled, 59 for and 25 against, an amendment to bar Export-Import Bank loans to non-market economy nations, such as Russia.

The amendment was offered to the International Development Association bill (above vote), although the IDA is not related to the Export-Import Bank.

In tabling the amendment, the Senate voted to permit loans to Communist countries.

Those voting to table argued that the amendment could restrict Secretary of State Kissinger's ability to extract trade concessions from the Soviets. Other members argued that the question was too important to be considered as a non-germane amendment to the IDA bill.

In arguing against the move to table, Sen. Peter Dominick (R-Colo) said, "There must be some kind of insanity" in a policy that gives loans to the Soviets while America is hard-pressed economically.

Symington and Eagleton voted yes.

Flurry of primaries Tuesday

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

The year's biggest flurry of primary elections hits eight states Tuesday when voters choose nominees to succeed retiring governors in California and New Mexico and a U.S. senator in Iowa.

Also at stake are nominations for senator and governor in South Dakota, a Senate seat in California, the governorship of Iowa and 76 U.S. House seats in the eight states. Forty-three of the House seats are in California.

Eighteen Democrats and six Republicans want to succeed GOP Gov. Ronald Reagan, who is stepping down after two terms and preparing for a possible White House bid in 1976.

Public opinion polls indicated the clear front-runners were Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr., 36, son of the governor that Reagan defeated in 1966, and Republican Houston I. Flournoy, 44, California state controller. Brown is California secretary of state.

In New Mexico, six Democrats and four Republicans are bidding for nominations to succeed Democratic Gov. Bruce King, who cannot succeed himself.

Iowa Democrat Harold E. Hughes is vacating his U.S. Senate seat, abandoning politics to become a religious lay leader.

Democrat Rep. John C. Culver is unopposed for the nomination for Hughes' seat. State Sen. George Milligan and State Rep. David Stanley, who lost to Hughes six years ago, are in the GOP primary.

Republican Gov. Robert D. Ray of Iowa is unopposed in his party renomination bid. There are three Democratic candidates.

In South Dakota, Gov. Richard F. Kneip's bid for a third term is challenged in the Democratic primary by Lt. Gov. William Dougherty, his running mate in the past two campaigns.

Democrat Sen. George McGovern is unopposed for his party' renomination, while three Republicans compete to battle him in the general election, including retired Air Force Col. Leo K. Thorsness, who spent six years in a North Vietnamese prison camp.

U.S. House nominations are at stake in New Jersey, Montana and Mississippi.

In California, Sen. Alan Cranston faced only token opposition from two other Democrats. There were five Republicans in the race including state Sen. H. L. Richardson and Earl Brian, former health and welfare secretary under Reagan.

The California election could provide a test of potential reaction to Watergate and related political scandals.

Since 1969 Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, 50, was considered the front-runner and apparent heir of Reagan's support for the gubernatorial nomination. But his support weakened and his campaign funds virtually dried up when he was indicted by a Watergate grand jury on three counts of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972.

Californians also will decide a major political reform measure put on the ballot by petition campaign in reaction to Water-

Mass transit funds available

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mass transit woes of many cities have one solution waiting for them in Washington. It's bushels of money—estimated at up to $4 billion—available but virtually untouched for almost a year.

All it takes is willingness by state and local governments to make a choice between roads, cars that use them and the fuel they use against energy-saving mass transit.

Last August, Congress passed and President Nixon signed into law a bill freeing billions of dollars from the federal highway trust fund to be used for public transportation, such as buying buses or railcars, or other capital expenses.

Yet, only one state has taken advantage of the law and one other has an application on file with the federal government.

Massachusetts on Thursday received $671 million for use for public mass transit in the Boston area and for a section of highway in the southeastern part of the state. Pennsylvania has filed an application for the Philadelphia area, which could yield about $165 million.

A spokesman for the Urban Mass Transit Administration of the Transportation Department said more states have not taken advantage of the law because cities view public transportation not as a service but as a burden. A spokesman for DOT's Federal Highway Administration said there is about $4 billion available for public mass transit that cities have not sought.

Asked if there were liabilities in requesting the money, the UMTA spokesman said, "Disadvantages? No, not that I can think of, if a state has done its research."

Money received under the act would not cut back on other federal transportation-related funds going to the state, she said.

Massachusetts decided it would be of more benefit to have the money that would have been spent on one section of Interstate highway—a beltway stretch around Boston—transferred for expenditure on public mass transportation needs.

If states opt for the transportation, it can only be publicly owned mass transit, and the money comes from Washington after the federal government is convinced the stretch of highway is not vital to the national Interstate system; that the state and local government have a viable transit plan accompanied by reports on environmental impact, civil rights and so on.

Italian extremists groups mushrooming

ROME (AP) — The band of uniformed young men pitched their tents deep in the wilderness, chopped wood and cooked on an open fire like weekend campers on a holiday.

But when a police patrol, alerted by an edgy villager, approached the camp in the mountains northeast of Rome last week, it was met by a blistering round of submachine gun fire. The police fired back, killing one youth and capturing two others.

Authorities said they were members of the Mussolini Action Squad, right-wing adventurers named in memory of Italy's Fascist dictator.

Two days before, a bomb was set off during a large antifascist rally in Brescia, a northern industrial city troubled by violence for some months. Seven persons were killed, 100 injured.

Military is withdrawn from Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The United States today withdrew the last of the 216 military men it sent to Laos 16 months ago, ending a decade of direct military involvement in the Indochinese kingdom's civil war, diplomatic sources reported.

The last of the force of special "military attaches" took a commercial flight to Bangkok, Thailand, the sources said.

The Laotian peace accords specify that all foreign troops are to be out of the country by June 4. The last of more than 17,000 Thai troops pulled out two weeks ago, but military sources say there is no evidence that North Vietnamese has withdrawn any of the estimated 25,000-30,000 troops it has along its supply lines through southeast Laos to the Communist forces in South Vietnam.

Informed sources said the United States probably will continue reconnaissance flights over Laos to keep tabs on North Vietnamese troop movements.

The peace agreements also set Tuesday as the deadline for release of all prisoners of war in Laos, but U.S. sources said it looks "almost certain" that the Pathet Lao will not free American pilot Emmet James Kay.

Kay, 47, a civilian flying for Continental Air Services Inc., is the last American known to be a prisoner in Indochina. He was captured on May 7, 1973.

cidents recall the climate of violence and fear which preceded Mussolini's coming to power 50 years ago. They refer to it as a "strategy of tension" aimed at capitalizing on Italy's worst economic crisis since the war to bring another dictator to power.

Right-wing extremist groups are mushrooming, under such names as the New Order, the Black Order, the Year Zero and the National Vanguard. Conservative estimates put their total membership at only 12,000 of Italy's 54 million people, but other sources say it is much higher.

Many members come from families of comfortable means or are sons of low-level state employees, according to police descriptions.

One source said the right-wing terrorists have strong ideas about bringing order to this country of frequent strikes but "some of them are really crazy and have no political ideas."

Italian law is liberal toward such "extraparliamentary" groups. But in a precedent-setting decision last year, a court banned the New Order. It ruled the group was an attempt to reconstruct the Fascist party, outlawed by the postwar constitution.

A Milan prosecutor applied the same law to the leader of the neo-fascist Italian Social Movement, the MSI, the country's fourth largest political party.

The MSI received 2.8 million votes in the 1972 national election, nearly 9 per cent of the total. The party has 82 of the 924 seats in the two houses of Parliament.

Giorgio Almirante, the head of the party, was an official in Mussolini's wartime government. He says he is not ashamed of those days but rejects the fascist label now.

A year ago Parliament stripped Almirante of his immunity as a deputy so he could be charged with reconstructing the Fascist party, but there has been no move yet to bring him to trial.

Legal death definition is sought

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The meaning of death has become shrouded in legal complications.

To arrive at a current definition, 180 men headed by a Memphis authority on legal medicine are working to produce a uniform, legal meaning of "death."

"There is a point in death when there is absolutely no possibility of continued life," said Dr. McCarthy DeMere, chairman of an American College of Legal Medicine committee. His group hopes to get a definition to present to the August 14 meeting of the American Bar Association's House of Delegates in Honolulu.

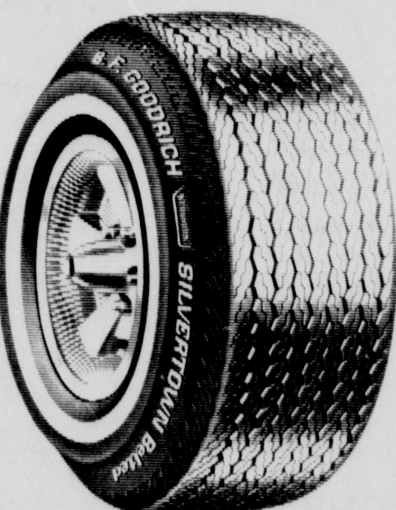

DeMere, director of the Institute of Legal Medicine at Memphis State University and a holder of degrees in both law and medicine, said, "I believe we can determine that point with what knowledge we have in medicine at this time."

The creation of life-sustaining machines and the development of organ transplant techniques have complicated death, DeMere said, and the actual time of a person's death has become a basis for courtroom debates: "Different tissues die at different times."

He believes it will be at least five years before a uniform definition of death is accepted by the ABA and the Uniform Law Commission and ratified by each state, but the definition will be legally binding after it is accepted by the ULC.

State Democrats approve delegate selection plan

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's state Democratic Central Committee has approved a plan to select 53 delegates and 12 alternates for the national Democratic party's Dec. 6-8 mid-term convention in Kansas City.

The committee voted, 35-0, at the end of a five-hour meeting here Saturday, to toss out a provision in the delegate selection plan for proportional representation by special interest groups in the delegate selection meetings.

Under the plan, designed to allow women and minority group members to select their own delegates, a group comprising 20 per cent of the participants in a delegate selection meeting could hold its own caucus and elect delegates with voting power commensurate to its strength at the meeting.

Hilda Newman, of Kansas City moved to strike the section. Joseph P. Roddy of St. Louis, holding seven proxies from the 3rd District in St. Louis and the 10th Congressional District of southeast Missouri, cast all seven against the proportional representation plan.

Opponents of the proposal, including former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes—who did not attend the meeting—object in part because the percentage of strength might not divide evenly into the number of delegates to be selected from a particular meeting.

Eleven of the 53 delegates will be the nine Democratic U.S. representatives and two U.S. senators. Eight will be selected by the state Democratic Committee Sept. 10.

That leaves 34 to be selected from the 10 congressional districts in caucuses to be held Aug. 27. Mass meetings of ward and county Democratic groups Aug. 20 will select the delegates to the district caucuses. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 5th districts will have four delegates each to Kansas City and the rest will have three each.

The national committee rejected Missouri's first delegate selection plan, which would have allowed members of congressional district committees to pick 34 of the delegates rather than having the 34 picked by persons elected at the various county, ward and township meetings.

State Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, attempted to change the selection formula but withdrew his motions after it was pointed out that the national committee had stipulated certain selection guidelines.

Howard said the 1st District should have five delegates because of its higher Democratic vote total in 1972. He also said blacks and women would have better representation under his proposal. And he objected to having the state Central Committee select eight delegates. Because 11 congressmen already are selected, he said, the people only get to vote on 65 per cent of Missouri's delegates to the Kansas City convention.

The National Democratic Committee put no quota system on blacks or women. The formula includes the total population in each congressional district and the percentage of votes cast in 1972 for the Democratic presidential candidate from each district.

Debt of Democrats is 50 per cent paid

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The "Committee of 10,000" financing plan of the Missouri Democratic Party now has 1,185 paid-up members, state party officials say.

Each state committee member received copies of the number of delegates that each ward and county in the state will have for the congressional district caucuses.

Anyone who is 18, a registered voter, lives in the ward or county, and who signs a statement that he is a Democrat, can attend the mass meetings.

The 46 committee members — including 16 proxies — voted down an attempt by Geraldine Osborn of St. Louis to require that no one who has voted or worked for any other party in the past four years can participate in the mass meetings. Opponents of her motion said this would turn away Democrats who voted for President Nixon in 1972.

After first voting to leave it in, the committee members took out a section in the selection plan that would allow persons to hold up to three proxy votes at caucuses, conventions or committee meetings.

Parliamentarian Ron Reed said the proxy voting for delegate selection is banned by the party's bylaws.

Among those represented by proxies at Saturday's meeting were Hearnes, state Sen. William J. Cason of Clinton, state Sen. Robert A. Young of St. Ann, and former state Democratic Chairman Delton Houtchins.

A financial report at Saturday's state meeting, called to approve a delegate selection plan for the Dec. 6-8 national mid-term convention in Kansas City, showed the state party has cut its debt from the 1972 elections to $29,500.

The debt originally was about $60,000.

The committee of 10,000, proposed by state Treasurer James I. Spainhower, has contributed $41,981 in the past year. More than $4,000 has been distributed to county and ward committees and the rest has gone to pay off debts and operating expenses.

The $100-a-year "Mule Skinners" club, with 26 paid-up members, has contributed $22,566, the committee's financial statement said.

The $10-a-year "regular members," with 1,038 members, have paid $10,385.

The $25-a-month "True Truman Democrats," 27 of them, have paid $4,400. The $36-10-a-month "Grass Rooters" have paid $2,240. And 58 of the $5-a-month "sustaining members" have paid $2,390.

Psychologist generates speech from mute, autistic children

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Irene Kassorla claims her professional life essentially started when she was 42.

That's after she developed new techniques which enabled her to generate speech from mute, autistic children, thereby markedly altering childhood schizophrenia.

While attending the University of California at Los Angeles she was assigned hospital observation duties and says it was there she realized doctors were reinforcing psychosis.

"I went back to my school and wrote a paper saying doctors are reinforcing psychosis at such and such hospital," she said in an interview here.

After the papers were graded and handed back she recalls that her professor asked, "Who is Irene Kassorla? May I speak with you for a moment?"

"I thought he was going to do something drastic; instead he said, 'Look, what do you want?' I told him I wanted a patient and I wanted to try out my own ideas, which of course was absurd because you don't get a patient for another 10 years — when you're close to your doctorate," she explained.

She got a patient, nevertheless, and within a week, she says, she was able to get remarkable results from a sick little girl.

By simply reversing what was done at the hospital, Dr. Kassorla said she reinforced healthy responses, ignored the bizarre, and the child got better.

"Before," she said, "doctors would see a psychotic doing something crazy and say, 'Oh, that's all right! I wouldn't say, 'Oh, that's all right! I'd say, 'Hey, that's crazy, what the heck are you doing? Stop it!'"

"I'm never dishonest with such a person. I give him reality, and this is what is important about my techniques — treat the psychotic normally and you know what, he acts normal!"

For the next three years she continued work with autistic children. Then in 1965 she was invited to further her studies in London by Hans Eysenck, professor of the Institute of Psychiatry at the University of London.

In London she claims "again very marvelous things happened." She worked with a 52-year-old patient who hadn't spoken in over 30 years. She recalled he was like a rock but says she was able to get him talking after 31 days.

"The papers got hold of it and started calling me 'miracle worker.' Then the BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) came to me and made a couple of documentaries on my work with this man."

Completing her degree in London, Dr. Kassorla returned to the United States and internship. While in Los Angeles she was asked to do therapy sessions at a television station. She says she thought it was an excellent idea because most people undergo the same kind of difficulties as the psychotic.

"The psychotic," she explained, "will act crazy, using it as a language, and very often we respond to it. But, with normal people, psychotic behavior is not as easy to see because it is not as magnified. The psychotic is different only in frequency, intensity, and volume — a magnification of normalcy.

"With normal people," she continued, "there's the same tendency to bury feelings of inadequacy and insecurity, and that's when one begins to feel different from others and starts to distort reality."

"Everyone fails," she added. "Everybody feels inadequate at times, and everybody feels afraid. But the difference between a successful person and a mediocre person is that the first one goes right on trying after a failure. The other sits back and waits until he's no longer afraid."

The basis of the TV show, she says, is to let people in their homes see other people talking about the same problems everyone faces so eventually they see that they're no different from the next guy.

"The Dr. Irene Kassorla Show" started out on a 13-week trial basis and has managed to continue for three years. Dr. Kassorla says talks are now underway for showings in various parts of the United States.

The mother of two grown daughters, 20 and 26, Dr. Kassorla says she's also interested in working with the so called "normal" parent — in showing him or her how to stop reinforcing psychotic behavior in their children.

Currently she's completed a book entitled "Putting It All Together," which she says was written for the purpose of showing people how negative responses are acted out and cause unhealthy and unhappy lives.

"My main objective," she says, "is that, although in a couple of sessions I can't cure a person, I can give him hope and make him realize that he's just like everyone else."

Exercise is key to physical well being

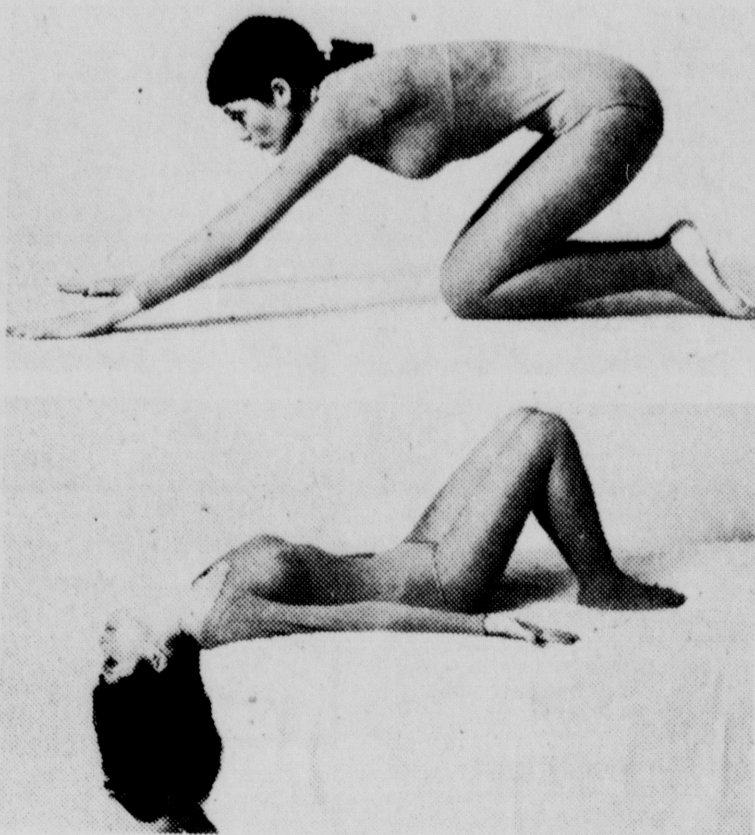

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many people saturate themselves with nostrums that are touted as necessary to body health, whereas the secret of physical well-being — exercise — is at their fingertips. That's the word from Olga Ley, longtime exponent of exercise, who believes "passivity is a sickness."

"Exercise can improve your posture and digestion and keep you stimulated — no matter what your age and even if your body is in bad shape you can still make lots of correction by exercising," she insists.

A lithe size 10, the Russian-born widow of the late pioneer space travel expert Willy Ley has been teaching exercise for 37 years. A ballet career was thwarted by an accident to her knee, but she managed to use some of the movements in a body program established for a major beauty salon. She left it to write an exercise column for a newspaper, where she met Ley. They had two daughters. After World War II she helped Capezio launch its well known line of exercise dance clothes.

Too much emphasis is placed on violent exercise — the kind you do vigorously and then forget about for awhile, she remarked. Exercise becomes a dirty word when one thinks one should do it. This is evident, she points out, in advertisements for diet pills and self-exercise garments which emphasize that "no exercise is necessary." Although Americans are sports-minded, they prefer watching others work out, she remarked.

Shape up

Exercises illustrated by Olga Ley include the cat stretch, for back strain, and a throat and jawline strengthener, bottom. For the back, get down on your hands and knees. Leaving hands in place pull back as if trying to sit on your heels. For the throat and jawline, lie down with knees bent, feet on bed, and palms up. With neck and shoulders on bed drop head over the edge, stretching neck. Lift head leading with the chin and let it go back down again.

"Exercise should be pleasurable — done quietly, slowly and joyfully. To music if it is possible. Stretch when you have the opportunity. Look at how much a cat enjoys stretching. Exercise should be done for pleasure, not mechanically."

"Swimming can be done at any age. One should continue to use one's body as one grows older. You need not do exercises at a specific hour. Do one while you stand in line at a movie or while you are stopped for a traffic light. One of my pupils, 87, can bend down, touching her palms to the floor," she observed.

Mrs. Ley's interest in the body came naturally. Her mother was a surgeon, and her father — an architect, painter and member of the Royal Academy of Art of St. Petersburg — interested her in anatomy with his illustrations of the human body, its muscles and bones. The family came to the United States after the Russian Revolution.

At her studio in New York Mrs. Ley illustrated some of the exercises in her book, "Keep Moving: Easy Exercises for Figure Control." They concern some of the most serious figure problems that beset young and old.

For example, this one for upper underarms: Press your palms together with fingers extended flat. Lift your elbows high and drop your joined hands down as far behind your head as you can. Keep your head up throughout.

Or this jawline firming: Drop your head back and keeping this position open your mouth wide and shut it several times.

For strengthening the chin and jaw muscles try this one: Cup your chin in both hands, open your mouth wide and try to shut it by pressing upward with your palms while you resist by keeping your mouth open.

Put the finishing touches in your home with an original work of art.

Polly's pointers

This yarn years in the making

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — and Mrs. S.W.C. — I made a patch purse out of leather scraps and crocheted the pieces together and then lined the purse with taffeta. Crochet the pieces together to make a rectangle, fold up about two-thirds of the way from the bottom edge, right sides out, and crochet sides together. The single end is for the flap. Crochet around all exposed edges. A shoulder strap can be made by crocheting two thicknesses together.

The patched pieces for such a bag also could be folded in half and a zipper put along the top. A clutch purse could be made with sides and a rounded bottom. Never put straight pins in the pieces. They will leave holes. To make the holes for crocheting, stitch around with an unthreaded size 16 sewing machine needle. — MR. D.V.

DEAR GIRLS — Helen punches the holes for the crochet needle to go through and stresses the fact that when crocheting the work must be kept loose so the finished piece will be flat. Also that pieces crocheted around the edges are then put together with more crochet. Mary zigzag stitches the pieces together on her sewing machine and says knit dresses could be trimmed with leather pieces such as she has seen on imports from Hong Kong. — POLLY.

Polly's problem

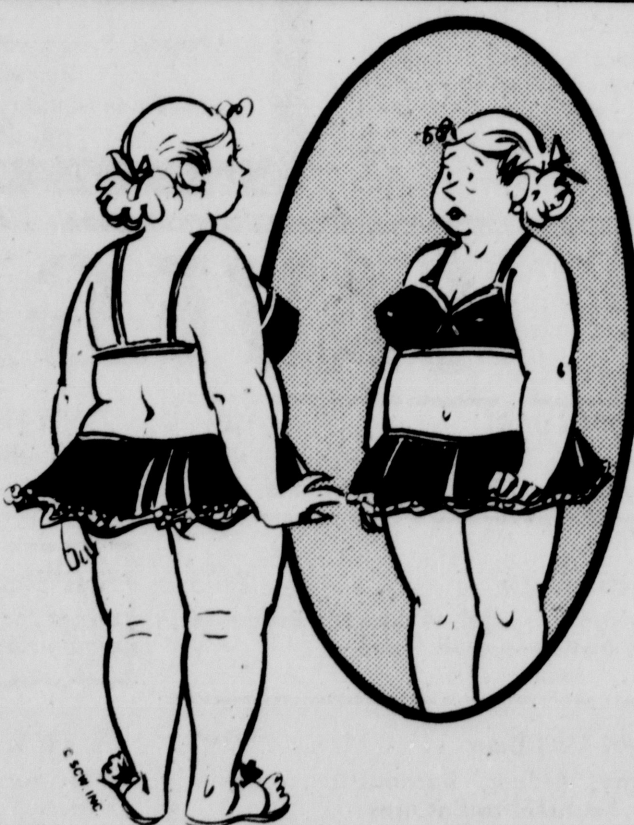

DEAR POLLY — I have a big basket of leftover balls of yarn accumulated from years of knitting and crocheting. I would like to use them to make granny squares for afghans but need to separate the wool from the synthetic yarn. Can someone tell me a positive test to use? I now know that a simple reminder such as tying a loose knot in the ends of the wool balls would have saved me from being in this dilemma. — MRS. C.A.W.
